The 18th Century

Masonic Token

by Yasha Beresiner, LM 1467

While there exists a wide range of items that can be collected on the subject of Freemasonry and much has already been written on Masonic medals of considerable antiquity and diverse interest, the topic of this article, the English Masonic tokens of the 1790s, stands out as a unique issue in Masonic numismatic history.

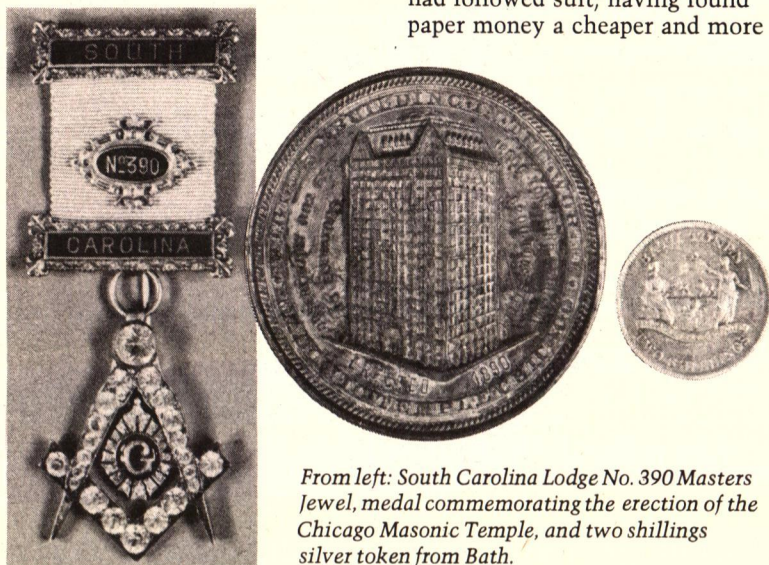

In the study of Masonic collectibles one must establish the distinction between jewels, medals and tokens, all of which are separate collecting categories. The Masonic jewel is not a numismatic item per se, but a personal ornament exhibiting a precious stone. The differentiation between medals and tokens can be much more vague, but becomes very clear on a monetary level. A medal, marked with a design or inscription, and made to honor a person, place or event is not intended to pass as money. The token is more functional, being made of durable material, appropriately marked, and unofficially issued for monetary, advertising, or other purposes.

In the case of 18th century English Masonic tokens it is their dual use as both a commemorative and a circulating monetary piece which distinguishes them from any Masonic medals issued throughout the world.

The basis for monetary tokens was established centuries ago by the pattern which followed a government's economic crises. When war broke out, a nation's populace would begin hoarding gold and silver coinage as security for their future. To preserve the country's economic equilibrium governments were forced to invent countless substitutes for the coinage that was rapidly disappearing from circulation.

As early as the 9th century, the Chinese had invented paper money to alleviate exactly this kind of situation. By the turn of the 16th century most countries in Europe had followed suit, having found paper money a cheaper and more hoarding each time an emergency arose. So it was that the commercial token came into being.

Private tokens, to alleviate the shortage of small change, were first issued in England in the 16th century and continued to be minted, if somewhat erratically, until the middle of the 19th century. The only known example of Masonic tokens were released to the public at the end of the 18th century. The circumstances, however, which led to their being minted and their use—and misuse—could well apply to all token coinage.

The 1780s saw the beginnings of the Napoleonic Wars fast approaching. By 1793 the struggle for command of the sea had already begun. Britain was using all its available silver for the war effort, and paper money issues had been limited by law to values in excess of £1 only. Small denomination coinage was scarce and the shortage of metal, which limited the number of coins the Royal Mint could place into circulation, was worsened by the public who began to hoard silver pieces.

In 1790, to take an example, the

About the Author

An Israeli born in Turkey in 1940, Yasha Beresiner holds a law degree from Hebrew University of Jerusalem and is currently living and working in London. His collecting interests blossomed at a young age with the coins and banknotes his father brought back from trips abroad, and his academic inclinations toward the hobby eventually led him to the editorship of the IBNS Journal between 1970 and 1973 and to the foundership of LANSA. He has been active in most paper money societies and is a life member of the ANA and the AINA.

In addition to several hundred articles published in the English, American and Latin American numismatic press, his article on "Legal Tender Playing Cards," published in The Numismatist, July, 1977, brought him the recognition of a bronze Heath Literary Award.

cotton works at Newcastle issued their own one penny tokens which were used in laborers' pay packets. The token stated: "Payable at the Works—One Pound note for 240 tokens." Thus, although so far as the Government was concerned the token was an unofficial issue, it could still be used for both monetary purposes within the works and remain redeemable for a Bank of England £1 note when one lot of 240 pennies was presented in exchange.

The convenience of such small denomination tokens is self-evident and during this period many hundreds of commercial enterprises and municipalities as well as private individuals of standing, circulated their own copper coins, which became known as "tokens." The wide range of tokens issued led to the establishment of a large fraternity of collectors, and while most tokens were legitimate issues, there soon emerged the less scrupulous and more commercially minded manufacturer who saw the profit which could emanate from the gullible collector.

It was during this time that the opportunity presented itself for the issuing of a Masonic token, and instrumental in that effort was an entrepreneurial Freemason of good commercial repute, James Sketchley of Birmingham. Born in the Birmingham area in the 1740s, Sketchley had by the 1760s established himself as a tradesman of distinction and was responsible for the publication of several local directories of importance. Toward the end of that decade, James Sketchley was advertising himself as a businessman with whom:

... the following great variety of business can be transacted on the most easy terms. Money lent on the shortest notice ... State lottery tickets and shares sold on the best terms. Stocks in trade, Husbandry ... Jewels, Pictures, Sculptures ... bought or sold ... by Commission ... (and auction).

This was advertised in the second edition of his own Birmingham Directory dated 1767. He was the publisher of a weekly newspaper in Bristol from October 1777 and was well involved in auctioning property during the same period. Successful through most of his life, his fortunes unfortunately began to decline about 1794. These circumstances may have been an additional factor leading him to issue his Masonic tokens. Sketchley died in Poughkeepsie, New York in August 1801, but there appears to be no record of his travel to or stay in the United States.

Although the first few Masonic tokens were undoubtedly struck and issued by James Sketchley, their manufacture passed on at a very early stage to William Lutwyche, who was responsible for manufacturing the majority of them. Lutwyche was undoubtedly one of the major token manufacturers of the 18th century, and some tokens of the highest standard came from his factories. He was, however, also responsible for a series of cheap and illegal specious tokens and, as we shall see, issued several masonic "mules" using the designs of his patron's dies in order to sell these to collectors as rare items.

W.J. Davis in his The Token Coinage of Warwickshire published in 1895 states:

Lutwyche issued over two tons of his private pieces on which a large and unjustifiable profit was made. The extent of the fraud on the public was great, for it was afterwards discovered that manufacturers were supplied with tokens to pay the wages of workmen at the rate of 36/- face value for 20/-. This ill-gotten wealth did not satisfy those who trafficked in it, as tons of imitation pieces were also struck of only half their proper weight.

Although a complete collection of English Masonic tokens would consist of some 35 different varieties there are only 12 distinct types—that is, minted from different dies; it is the several inscriptions on the edge of each coin which account for the numerous varieties. The only two denominations ever issued were the halfpenny and one penny tokens which, with one exception, correspond in size to the pre-decimal old coins of the same values. Of these, the one penny is the rarer; only one known type has been recorded in all the available literature on the subject.

The tokens can be readily placed under two separate groups. The first are the "Genuine Trading Tokens" issued to facilitate trade. Of these there are three distinct obverse types and two types for the reverse. The second group comprises those Masonic tokens which were intended for the contemporary collector. This group can be further subdivided as follows:

(a) The Masonic "mules," where dies were usurped from other genuine tokens and combined in order to create a new token of no commercial value but attractive to the collector.

(b) Masonic specious tokens purporting to be true commercial ones but attributed to fictitious organizations or individuals, and

(c) The Masonic Penny, that stands as an item on its own.

Considering each group separately:

The genuine halfpenny tokens are directly attributable, in their original concept, to James Sketchley. The three distinct types for the obverse are:

(1) A winged cherub within an equilateral triangle surrounded by Masonic symbols. Legend along the sides of the triangle: "Wisdom, Strength and Beauty." Second legend around the border: "Sit Lux et Lux Fuit." Within the triangle rays of light composed of alternating lines and dots descending from the G at the top, to below the cherub's robe.

(2) Identical to the above except the rays of light do not descend below the cherub's robe. There is a full stop after "Fuit."

(3) Identical to (1) but the rays of light are composed of lines only. There is a full stop after "Beauty" and Fuit."

The two types for the reverse are:

(1) The Freemason's Arms are supported by two beavers. A dove is perched on top of a sphere at the head of the crest. The motto on a scroll below reads: "Amor, Honor et Justitia." The legend around the border: "24 NOV 1790 PRINCE OF WALES ELECTED G.M."

(2) Identical to above, but the supporting beavers have no ribs; comma after "NOV."

The following edge readings have now been recorded:

- m) PAYABLE AT RICHARD LONGS LIBRARY
- n) HALFPENNY PAYABLE AT DUBLIN CORK OR DERRY
- o) Plain edge

It is a combination of both sides of the tokens, coupled with the wide range of edge readings which form the basis of a collection of the Sketchley tokens: The inscription on the edges of the tokens are an important factor in establishing the use of the coins when they were originally minted. Taking into consideration all of the known edge inscriptions of the tokens, the following common factors can be established. The range of areas where the tokens were circulated include London, Dublin, Cork, Derry, Lancaster and Bristol. The words "Masonic" and "halfpenny" appearing on several tokens, and Sketchley's name, spelled in various manners, can also be encountered. Four particular locations where the tokens could be negotiated are given as John Crow's coppersmiths, Richard Long's library, W. Parker's Old Birmingham warehouse and the Black Horse, Tower Hill.

The last of these is of greater significance in the knowledge that Freemasons, during the period in question, often held their meetings in old taverns. Longman, in his Bookseller's Tokens, published in 1916, specifically states that the tokens were: "... issued from the Black Horse public house on Tower Hill which was kept by a brother Mason of the Birmingham Sketchley. . . ." A "Black Horse" public house exists today in Tower Hill at 254 Tabbard Street, London, SE1, and is run by a Mr. Boyle, whose only available information is that the original Black Horse was demolished in 1965 and a new pub built on the same site, the present landlords being Courage (Eastern) Ltd. Courage was unable to trace any information from their records.

It can now be accepted that the earliest token was only issued in 1794, although the legend on the obverse states: "24 NOV 1790." The Prince of Wales, later to become King George IV, was indeed installed into the Grand Master's chair on that date, but the suggestion that the only purpose of the token was to commemorate this event, has not been satisfactorily substantiated. All tokens of the period—masonic and otherwise—displayed a variation of designs ranging from the simple to the sublime; the intention being to make the token more attractive for acceptance in lieu of the coin of the realm. For a Mason to issue a monetary token and choose a Masonic event of such great significance as a subject for its design, is as logical as it is practical. This is supported by the fact that the remaining depictions on the tokens are also Masonic.

Having failed in improving his own finances and aware of a growing collector's market, Sketchley may have decided to take advantage of the situation and through the intermediary of the owners of the Freemason's Magazine, endeavor to sell his tokens in quantities. Thus, in September 1794, the following advertisement appeared in the Freemason's Magazine:

Masonic Tokens

In the course of the past month, some copper pieces newly struck from a die which appears to be executed in a stile superior to any of the Provincial Coins at present in circulation, came to the hands of the Proprietary of this MAGAZINE. On inspection they appear to be called MASONIC TOKENS, and to have been invented by a Brother JAMES SKETCHLEY, of BIRMINGHAM, who intended them to serve as pocket-pieces; but, either from the novelty of the idea or the excellence of the workmanship, it would appear that many persons have been content to receive them in change as half-pence, in the same manner as the Liverpool, Norwich, Lancaster, Anglesey, Bungay, Macclesfield, Leak, Manchester, Coventry &c. coins have acquired credit and currency.

The subjoined engraving exhibits the obverse and reverse of the MASONIC TOKEN; and any gentleman desirous of preserving such pieces may receive them in parcels (containing 24) at One Shilling each, by applying at the BRITISH LETTER FOUNDRY, Bream's Buildings, Chancery Lane, London.

It is obvious, therefore, that not only had these coins seen considerable circulation by September 1794, but that by this time they were being largely issued for collectors as Masonic curios. Their sale in parcels of 24 tokens for one shilling, i.e. at face value, would suggest that they may have been bought for general circulation by tradesmen who had Masonic associations. It was a common practice at the time for some manufacturers to make available directly to tradesmen, bulk quantities of tokens to be used as small change with the manufacturer, himself remaining free from any liability as to their redemption. Thus, it is conceivable that the Sketchley tokens were first circulated as currency proper and at a later stage sold in quantities to both tradesmen and contemporary collectors as curios. Arthur Waters in Notes on 18th Century Tokens (1954) records a total mintage of 25,750 tokens and states that the die-sinker was Dixon.

By this time the collector's fervor for the diverse range of tokens was at a peak and the next series of tokens was unquestionably intended to have no monetary significance, designs being drawn from a combination of other tokens then in existence. These "mules," as they are known today among numismatists, were freak tokens, many of which came directly from the workshop of William Lutwyche.

The three best known examples used Sketchley's reverse (2), i.e. the Freemason's Arms supported by ribbed beavers. Three new dies were used for the obverse of the tokens. They were:

(4)m. An almost full face portrait of George IV and the legend around the edge: "GEO PRINCE OF WALES HALFPENNY."

(6)m. A portrait of the Duke of York facing to the right with the legend: "FREDK. DUKE OF YORK HALFPENNY 1795."

The combined edge readings on all these tokens allow for payment in Lancaster, London, Bristol and Dublin. According to Pye, the engraver of the dies for (4)m and (5)m was Wigan, but there is no information as to the quantity issued.

A fourth token in this second grouping of "mules" has an addition to the normal reverse in that the design of the coat of arms incorporates at the base, the square and compasses. The legend reads: "Pro Bono Publico," omitting any reference to the election of the Prince of Wales as Grand Master. The obverse reads:

(7)m. In the centre the cypher in script "I H B." Above it a pair of scales and below the date 1795. The legend around the border states "EAST GRINSTEAD HALFPENNY."

The edge reading identifies the owner of the initials as I.H. Boorman. A second edge variety allows for payment of the token in Lancaster, London and Bristol.

The last item in the series is the Masonic penny. Thirty-three millimeters in size and considerably thicker than all the others this penny token is probably the most attractive. The obverse, similar to the halfpenny tokens described, incorporates the cherub within the triangle. Below is the date 1795 and around the border, "Masonic Token." The reverse, also similar in design to the halfpennies, is only different in having the motto: "Pro Bonco Publico" surrounding the Freemason's Coat of Arms.

The one penny token is undoubtedly a Lutwyche creation. Dalton and Hamner, in their Provincial Token Coinage of the 18th Century, published in 1910, suggest that this might have been Lutwyche's private token. Another suggestion is that the one penny token was struck at the insistence of Lamb of Bath for sale to collectors, which appears to be a more plausible explanation. There are no available records as to the quantity of the penny minted, although there is only one variety recorded. It is a token which is not easily encountered compared to the halfpenny token of the same series.

James Sketchley was the creator of the original Masonic token and it is undoubtedly he who chose the designs for the two sides of those tokens now known as the "triangle type," i.e. the genuine trading tokens. The obverse of these tokens, incorporating the triangle, was taken from the designs of the title page of the Freemason's Magazine. It is in all respects identical, but for the layout of the base of the triangle and the Prince of Wales' crown which, on the tokens, has been replaced by the letter "G."

The motto "Amor, Honor et Justitia" appears on a ribband. The cherub was the Angel of God and the Bible expresses the Will of God. The Setting Maul symbolizes the control that the Master of the Lodge has over each member's irregularities of temper and the Trowel is the jewel of the Master. The Plumb Rule represents upright conduct, the Compasses represent the measure of a Mason's life and the Square is the symbol of morality.

The three words along the edges of the triangle are Wisdom, representing King Solomon who is considered the founder of the order; Strength, one of the three principle supports of Masonry; and Beauty, and the third symbolic pillar supporting the Lodge. Light, as depicted by the rays in the Triangle, represents Freemasonry as a whole—every Mason's search for light in surrounding darkness. The motto "Sit Lux et Lux Fuit" is from Genesis, chapter 1, verse 3: "Let there be Light, and there was Light." The triangle itself represents the perfect figure; the G at the top stands for God and above it is the all-seeing eye.

Freemasonry, which began in medieval times as an association of craftsmen, has grown into a worldwide symbolic organization based upon the fundamental morality held common to all religions. Through the study of their numismatic issues, collectors can explore the fascinating development of this secretive fraternity which has claimed as many members of the Western world's most influential figures over the last several centuries.

RECENT TRENDS IN NUMISMATIC INVESTMENTS

by Vincent K. Jones, ANA 91697

For years the counsel provided by numismatic authorities regarding the purchase of coins has been two-fold. First, a coin should be purchased based primarily on its ability to enhance one's pride and enjoyment of his or her collections and only secondarily on its investment potential. Second, although a coin's investment potential should not dominate the selection process, one should always purchase a coin in as fine a condition as possible.

Kenneth Bressett states in Chapter 1 of the American Numismatic Association's Young Numismatists Correspondence Course that "care should always be taken to see that the finest possible piece is put into the collection." Further, he states that "coins in superior condition will always bring the highest price at the time of resale, and will always show the greatest rate of increase in value over the years." This philosophy has been shown time and again to be correct. However, due to the excessively high prices of today's "superior condition" coins (i.e., MS-60 and above) numismatists are questioning the current accuracy of the axiom that superior condition coins will always show the greatest rate of increase in value.

The introduction to Bowers and Ruddy Galleries' Rare Coin Review No. 32, issued in early 1979, presented the following:

"In recent years there has been a lot of emphasis on the higher grades such as Proof-65 and MS-65. Indeed, these coins for the most part have rewarded their owners handsomely in terms of price appreciation. In recent times, however, we've noticed a widening spread between prices of higher and lower grades, a gap so wide in some instances that the lower grade pieces now stand out as great bargains.

On what factors do rising coin prices depend? There are several, but demand is the most important. Ultimately, the price of a coin is determined by how much a collector will pay. So, when formulating investment objectives, it is important to consider what the numismatist of future years will be buying. [Based on a] preceding example, it seems reasonable that many future numismatists will opt to acquire Extremely Fine specimens for their date or type sets, rather than Uncirculated pieces, simply because of the value received."

This article takes a current look at the investment characteristics of variously graded coins. Specifically, it shows that, prior to 1976, "superior condition" U.S.

(uncirculated) coins outperformed circulated coins when viewed from the investment aspects. However, it also shows that numismatists are presently opting to acquire Extremely Fine specimens of U.S. coins for their collections, rather than uncirculated pieces, and have been doing so for the last three years. This change in collector demand is evidenced by the fact that, over the last three years, the percentage increase in value of Extremely Fine U.S. coins has been greater than the percentage increase in value of uncirculated U.S. coins."

SPECIMENS ANALYZED

The present U.S. coin collector commonly utilizes the "type" or "date" method for compiling a U.S. coin collection. If one uses the type method, the resultant collections will contain one coin of each major U.S. coin design. A U.S. type set can contain common date specimens (coins minted during the years of large production runs) or can be a specialized set like a first year of issue type set where each specimen has the earliest possible date existing for the design type. The other commonly used coin collection method is the date method. Using this method, the collector pursues a course toward acquiring one specimen for each date/mint combination issued in the specific U.S. coin type design (e.g., Lincoln cents, Buffalo five-cents, etc.) which most interests the collector.

Since two distinct collecting methods exist, any study which is aimed at establishing general trends must consider both collecting methods. Recognizing this necessity, two U.S. type sets and several U.S. coin series were used in the research presented in this article. Table 1 lists the coins contained in the first U.S. type set; this set is a specialized U.S. type set where each specimen was minted the last year in which circulation pieces were struck for the design type. The type set defined in Table 1 is believed by the author to be representative of a specialized U.S. set which might be assembled by a collector of moderate means, and therefore omits late 1700 and early 1800 type designs, and has an 1859-O Half Dime and a 1912 Five Cent piece substituted for the high priced 1860 Half Dime and 1913 Five Cent piece, respectively. Further, because this research was designed to develop value comparisons from 1964 to date for the selected type set, the set does not contain a specimen for any current circulating type designs.

The second U.S. type set considered is the common date type set defined in Table 2. To facilitate comparisons between the growth-in-value characteristics of the common date and specialized type sets, those design types excluded from the specialized type set were also excluded from the common date type set.

15-YEAR MARKET REVIEW

The first step in the present research was to establish the retail value of the specialized type set over the last fifteen years. The set value for a given year was determined by summing the individual specimen values as defined in the following years edition of A Guide Book of United States Coins by R.S. Yeoman (i.e., the 1963 set value was determined using the specimen values reported in the 1964 edition of the "Red Book"). The retail value of the specialized type set was developed for four numismatic grades (F-12, VF-30, EF-40, and MS-60) and for odd-years

It must be noted that the mid-1960 editions of "Red Book" did not list the value of each coin in each of the above grades. However, since the present editions do provide all required valuations, the missing grade valuations in earlier "Red Books" could be established quite accurately by considering the relationship between grade and values today and the increase in published valuations over the intervening interval.

Using the valuation data presented in Table 3, the two-year percentages of increase in value were determined. The results are illustrated, by grade, in Figure 1. The data presented accurately depicts recent coin market events: the strong market growth in the early 1960's following increased interest in type set and roll "investments"; the "low-level" activity in the coin market during the mid-and late-1960's due to collector dissatisfaction with U.S. Mint policies and the significant levels of inflation experienced during that period of time . . . the unprecedented increases in "BU" coin values, and a corresponding high-level growth in circulated coin specimens, during the early- to mid-1970's due to the end of high-level inflation in the U.S. and a significantly increased interest in quality investments . . . and, finally, a return of "low-level" coin market activity during the late 1970's due to the return of 10-15% per annum inflation in the U.S. which results in a decreased demand for coins since the average collector begins to worry about increasing cash reserves to cover day-to-day living expenses.

Reviewing Figure 1, two key investment characteristics can be identified:

1. Until recent years, as the grade of the specialized U.S. type set increased, the investment potential of the set increased. That is, the higher the grade of the set, the higher the growth rate of the set.

2. During recent years, the percentage increase in value of a specialized U.S. type set with EF-40 specimens has been greater than the percentage increase in value of a similar set with MS-60 pieces. Specifically, during the last two years, the percentage increase in price of an EF-40 specialized type set was almost twice that of a MS-60 set.

The first investment characteristic defined above agrees with the axiom that superior condition coins will always show the greatest rate of increase in value over the years. However, the second investment characteristic directly contradicts the axiom and implies that the axiom is no longer accurate. Based upon this preliminary contradiction, further analyses were undertaken to establish whether or not the axiom continues to apply to today's coin market.

3-YEAR DETAILED ANALYSIS

Using the previously defined method of type valuation, the values for the specialized U.S. type set and common date U.S. type set were determined for the years 1976 and 1979. As before, the type set values were established for F-12, VF-30, EF-40 and MS-60 grades. The results of the valuation analyses are shown in Table 4.

To compare the 1976-to-1979 growth characteristics for both sets as a function of specimen grade, the percentages of value increase were determined, using the data in Table 4, and plotted as illustrated in Figure 2. Both sets were considered in order to determine whether or not the investment potential of a U.S. type set is significantly affected by its composition (i.e., common date or less-than-common date specimens).

Reviewing Figure 2, it is seen that:

1. For both type sets, the EF-40 set outperformed the MS-60 set during the 1976-to-1979 period.
2. The 1976-to-1979 percentage increase in value of the EF-40 common date U.S. type set was triple the percentage increase in value of the comparable MS-60 set.

3. The two type sets performed similarly when composed of circulated pieces; however, the 1976-to-1979 percentage increase in value of the MS-60 specialized U.S. type set was significantly larger than the percentage increase in value of the MS-60 common date type set.

The first result continues to support the fact that the current collector is opting to purchase EF-40 graded coins thus increasing demand for this grade of coin. The second two results tend to identify the reason behind the demand shift from MS-60 to EF-40. Specifically, the average collector of moderate means is no longer willing to consider superior condition coins due to the excessive prices of such pieces. This is indicated because the common date set, more likely to be purchased by the cost-conscience collector, had 1) the significantly larger disparity between growth of an EF-40 set and a MS-60 set, and 2) the significantly lower growth in a MS-60 set when compared to the specialized set which is more likely to be compiled by a wealthy collector due to its high initial cost.

The value growth of a type set can be caused by large increases in value for a few of the type set pieces or by moderate value increases for all the type set pieces. To investigate which of these conditions has been prevalent during the last three years, the percentage increase from 1976 to 1979 for each of the 65 pieces, in each

Figures 3 and 4 illustrate the proportion of type set pieces, for the specialized and common date U.S. type sets respectively, which have three-year growth levels exceeding specified levels. As an example, from Figure 3 it can be seen that 58% of the pieces in an EF-40 graded specialized U.S. type set had value increases exceeding 10% during the 1976-to-1979 period; only 47% of the MS-60 graded specimens in the same type of set had value increases exceeding 10% during the same period.

Table 5 presents several characteristics which describe the 1976-to-1979 percentage increases in value for the specialized and common date U.S. type set specimens. The various characteristics are self-explanatory except, perhaps, for the first and third characteristics. With regard to the first, half of the specimens in the specified type set have growth percentages less than the "median" value presented; similarly, half of the specimens have growth percentages greater than the "median" level. With respect to the third characteristic, one-fourth of the specimens in the specified type set have growth percentages less than the "lower" bound, one-fourth of the specimens have growth percentages greater than the "upper" bound, and one-half of the specimens have growth percentages between the bound values.

Reviewing Figures 3 and 4, as well as Table 5, it is seen that the EF-40 version of each type set has outperformed the MS-60 version of the same set over the last three years. More importantly, the data indicates that more EF-40 specimens than MS-60 specimens increased in value from 1976 to 1979, that the median increase was higher for EF-40 specimens than for MS-60 specimens, and that the number of EF-40 pieces which experienced a particular growth percentage over the three year period were generally larger than the number of MS-60 pieces experiencing the same three-year growth rate.

The preceding analyses have concentrated on the investment characteristics of U.S. type sets. To provide generalized results, however, the investment characteristics of date sets must also be reviewed. To accomplish this review, the 1976 and 1979 retail values of several coin series were developed using the 1977 and 1980 editions of Yeoman's A Guide Book of United States Coins. Finally, using the valuation data developed, for both EF-40 and MS-60 series specimens, the three-year growth percentages were calculated for each series. Table 6 presents the data compiled during the analysis effort. It can be seen from a review of the data that, in general, the EF-40 versions of date sets have experienced larger percentage increases in value than the MS-60 versions of the same series.

SUMMARY

Until 1976, the "superior condition" coin (i.e., MS-60 through -70 pieces) always showed the greatest rate of increase in value year-to-year. However, by 1976 the price of such coins had generally reached price levels which are excessively high for the great majority of numismatists and collectors. Consequently, the buyer of coins, interested in quality at reasonable price levels, turned towards higher-grade circulated coins (i.e., EF-40 pieces and above). The increased demand for such pieces, and the corresponding decrease in demand for uncirculated coins, caused the high-grade circulated coins to outperform, from a percentage increase in value standpoint, uncirculated coins over the last three years (i.e., 1976 to 1979). Except for the modern U.S. series, which can still be obtained in uncirculated condition for only a few hundred dollars, an EF-40 version of most U.S. coin series has increased in value, over the last three years, at a rate which equals or exceeds the increase in value of the same series in MS-60 grade. In some cases, the percentage increase in value of the EF-40 set is twice that of the MS-60 set. In addition, a MS-60 version of a common date U.S. type set (circa 1815 to 1964) has increased in value 4.5 percent since 1976 whereas the same type set in EF-40 grade has increased almost 16 percent in value—nearly four times the percentage increase of the uncirculated version.

Undoubtedly the counsel to purchase "the finest possible piece" will continue for years to come. However, it appears likely that high-grade circulated coins will continue to match the price growth of uncirculated coins and that collectors of moderate means who own high-grade circulated coins will share significantly in the investment benefits which develop in future coin markets.

DEPARTMENT OF THE TREASURY
BUREAU OF ENGRAVING AND PRINTING
WASHINGTON, DC.

This engraving, printed from a plate made from the original master die, is a replica of the back of the Series 1896 $5 Silver Certificate. It complements the face printing of this class, denomination, and series which was issued as a souvenir card in 1973.

As in previous issues of this series, portraits were placed on the backs of notes because the face designs were very detailed and extended over the entire obverse of the notes.

The back of the $5 Silver Certificate bears the portraits of Generals Ulysses S. Grant and Philip Sheridan, with a central design of much artistic rendering, showing the head of a goddess with outstretched wings and shades of light radiating therefrom. Thomas F. Morris, Chief of the Bureau's Engraving Division at the time, created the design. Lorenzo Hatch engraved the portraits and G. F. C. Smillie engraved the head and wings.

Reestablishing a tradition which began at the 1969 ANA convention in Philadelphia, the Bureau of Engraving and Printing issued a special souvenir card for the ANA's Second Midyear Convention featuring a reproduction of an engraving of the reverse of the $5 Silver Certificate, Series 1896.

Completing the Educational Series of cards which were issued for conventions every year from 1971 through 1976, the $5 Silver Certificate reverse bears the portraits of Generals Ulysses S. Grant and Philip Sheridan with a central design of the head of a goddess with outstretched wings.

Cards are priced at $3 each and for those who were unable to attend the convention may be ordered by mail from the Bureau of Engraving and Printing. The souvenir card will be withdrawn from sale on May 15, 1980, or upon depletion of stock, whichever occurs sooner.

Mail orders must be accompanied by proper remittance in the form of check or money order made payable to the "Bureau of Engraving and Printing" and addressed to: 1980 ANA Souvenir Card, Bureau of Engraving and Printing, Washington, DC 20228. Customers are requested not to send cash with their orders. Normal processing requires approximately 60 days; however, additional delay may result because of unusual demand and priority program requirements.

Requests should be made on letter-size sheets or the order forms provided with previous deliveries. Orders must contain the purchaser's name, address and zip code. Enclosure of an extra "return address label" with the order will facilitate handling and expediate delivery.

Woodward and Garrett

An Historical Study

Most of the pieces were either uncirculated or proof. It is interesting to note that Garrett's purchases of foreign pieces from Woodward had virtually stopped by this time; as we saw in the Newlin correspondence, he was beginning to reduce his holdings in foreign at about this period, much of it being sold through George Massamore's auctions in Baltimore, and was working on completing his American series. Aside from the pieces Garrett bought from Woodward's 77th and 78th Sales, the J.C. Randall Sales of 6/29/85 and 9/15/85 discussed in detail in the 1976 Newlin article, we currently have record of only one further auction purchase from Woodward's sales: an 1801 Half Dollar from his 80th Sale, the Matthews Collection, 12/16/85. We mention this here, out of sequence, since it falls in more naturally at this point than interspersed with the remaining correspondence which is on other matters.

Correspondence resumes in our file on March 2, 1885: "For your order telegraphed me from Florida [must have been for the Wight Sale] I am very much obliged. I believe I got everything you ordered, and I do not think I paid an unreasonable price for any one, though in the prehistoric department [the Pennsylvania Collection of 2/26/85, two days after the Wight Sale] you selected most of the very best things. On second thought, I believe I did miss Nos. 1084 and 1085, these were ordered by a gentleman at $5 each which I consider the very highest anyone ought to pay for them. 1085 was by some means lost and did not appear at the sale.

"I have lately made a great numismatic discovery, or rather I have turned up in England an unknown American coin of the very highest interest. I shall add it to my sale of April 2-3 [the Clark Sale, his 73rd]. I shall mail a description to Baltimore, and if you will take the trouble to inform me where you will be say about March 10, I will send you a copy direct.

"I sincerely hope you will be pleased with the coins, etc., when you receive them. When I have an order without limit I always feel troubled for fear I may overestimate the goods and buy them at too high a price. I think you will, however, in this case approve of what I have done. . . . P.S. I would address this letter to Pulaska but presume you are on the wing, and thus send this to Baltimore . . ."

Garrett was off on one of his traveling vacations in the South, as was often the case during part of the winter or early spring when the weather was raw.

More information on the "... unknown American coin . . ." came in with Woodward's letter of March 14, written in another hand and signed "per B.": "I send for your acceptance a copy of my 73rd Catalogue with plate and addenda. In the latter you will not fail to notice not only the gem of the collection, but the gem of any collection in which the piece may in future appear. This piece has been seen by all the leading Numismatists and Dealers in New York and Boston and it is, of course, exciting much interest. I have declined large offers for it, $300 and $450, but as so many have seen it I thought it only fair to offer it for public competition. I presume you are now at the South or I should have heard from you concerning my awkward loss of a memorandum of the Japanese Sword Guards which I sent you last. [Garrett had a fine collection of these, many still in the Garrett Oriental Collection.] I await your reply until you return. Your visit to Florida, so far as the climate is concerned, seems to be most enviable. The weather in Boston is fearful enough at the best, but it has this Winter been exceptionally terrible . . ."

The separately printed Addenda to Woodward's 73rd Sale was brief—only seven lots—but began with his "discovery coin," the 1783 Nova Constellatio silver Bit, to which he gave the following treatment:

"UNIQUE AMERICAN COIN"

"In 1782 the financier, Robert Morris, reported a system of coinage devised by Gouverneur Morris, the unit of which was an imaginary piece of small value. The largest coin, the Crown, was to be of gold, valued at 10,000 of the units; the next of silver, the Mark or Dollar of 1,000 units; the next the Quint or Half Dollar of silver of 500 units; and the Bil or Bit of silver of 100 units; and a copper coin of 10 units. Of these coins, until the present piece was discovered in Scotland, but three examples were known to exist, one of the Mark and two of the Quint; the obverses of the last two pieces differ materially, the reverses are from the same die. The gold Crown is unknown, and it is quite likely was never struck, and doubtful if dies were ever prepared for it, as all the dies which were made for a government coinage at the period—1782-3—with a single exception were accounted for before the discovery of this piece.

"The Mark, and the two Quints mentioned, were formerly in the collection of Mr. S.S. Crosby, to whose work on American Coins, pages 307 and following, reference is made for a full and interesting account of all that is known concerning these incunabulae of American coinage, for it is certain that they comprise the earliest efforts looking to the establishment of a Government coinage.

"The three pieces referred to are now all in the magnificent collection of Mr. Loring G. Parmelee of Boston."

This was followed by the lot description:

"1 1783 The Bit; device, an eye on a plain field within a glory or sun of thirteen points; within the points a circle of thirteen stars; legend, NOVA CONSTELLATIO; rev., a wreath enclosing the letters U.S. and the figures 100 below; legend, LIBERTAS.JUSTITIA.1783; size, 11; weight, 27 grs. nearly. The edge of this piece is ornamented with leaf work similar to the larger denominations. The coin has been carefully compared with the three previously referred to; it is not only of the precise style of workmanship of the others, but the dies are undoubtedly by the same artist. It has existed for an unknown period in the collection of an old numismatist in Scotland, whose recent death led to the dispersion of his cabinet by auction. The condition of the piece is perfect, uncirculated, and as nearly proof as coins of the period are found; it is covered with a dark film, which scarcely obscures its brilliancy; this film may be instantly removed, but it is in itself important evidence of the authenticity and antiquity of the coin. It will be limited at $550. If that starting bid is made, it will positively be sold, otherwise it will not be offered. See Plate Cat. 73, 1 ad."

Woodward elaborated on the Bit in a notice, or, as we would say today, a Press Release in the April, 1885, issue of the American Journal of Numismatics, p. 81:

"Discovery of a New Piece in the Nova Constellatio Series"

"The numismatic event of the period, of interest to the American collector, is the discovery, in Scotland, of the small silver piece of the series suggested by Gouverneur Morris in a system of coinage devised by him, and reported to the Government by the financier Robert Morris. This series was to comprise a gold coin, or crown, three silver coins, the mark, the quint, the bit or bil, and two pieces of copper. The gold coin is unknown, and probably never was struck; the mark, and two varieties of the quint, each of the three considered to be unique, are now known in the cabinet of Mr. Lorin G. Parmelee of Boston; the bit has hitherto remained undiscovered until within a few months: at the sale by auction in Scotland of the cabinet of a Scotch collector recently deceased, one turned up as an unknown coin, and was purchased by a dealer for the large sum of 15 Pounds 15 Shillings; at which price, with ten per cent added, it was offered to a prominent collector in England, by whom it was sent to an American dealer [Woodward, of course], for advice as to its rarity, genuineness, value, etc. It was returned with a liberal offer, and now having found its way across the Atlantic for a fourth time, it is offered for sale in New York on the 2d of April.

"In a future number, if the facts are obtainable, we hope to give some more definite information concerning this piece and its hiding place for the last century and upwards; it is understood to have been sold in Glasgow. The coin has been submitted to the leading numismatists and collectors in this country, and no doubt whatever is felt concerning its genuineness. A full account of the mark and quint, and whatever was known of Morris's system of coinage, will be found in Crosby's work on the Early Coins of America, where the subject is very fully treated, and also in the Journal, Vol. X, p. 33. The piece itself is illustrated on the plate in the catalogue of Mr. Woodward's Seventy-Third Sale, now just issued, and a full description, with some facts, may be found in the addenda to that sale. W."

As regards the other silver Nova Constellatio pieces of 1783, Crosby is known to have obtained the Mark and the first type of the Quint from the Birch Sale, 12/18/72, at high prices. The origin of the second type of the Quint, the one with no obverse legend, has not been generally known, but it seems from accidentally acquired information (during endless browsing of catalogues) that it first surfaced in 1870 in New York. Mason's Monthly Coin and Stamp Collectors' Magazine for November, 1870, borrowed and reprinted from Brown's Curiosity Cabinet No. 2 of that year the following little paragraph:

"The above illustration is taken from a silver coin in the possession of a young man in the city of New York, and was handed down by his grandfather as a family relic. A similar coin was described in Dickeson's Numismatic Manual, and was sold in the Mickley sale for $32; also the 1000 piece for double the size for $70. The figures represent 500 millesimos Spanish money, and it was the first pattern for a half dollar of Colonial (?) money. This coin is the only one known of this variety, and has never before been described. It is in fine condition, size 15½ American scale, with engrailed edge; but owing to a slight flaw has not a good ring. The one from the Mickley collection was size 17 and had "CONFEDERATIO" with a mint mark on the obverse.—Curiosity Cabinet." One may presume that Crosby somehow located the owner and acquired the piece from him directly, as there is no auction record before the sale of Crosby's own collection.

The Bit failed to reach the $550 reverse placed on it in Woodward's 73rd Sale and remained in Woodward's possession. It recurs as a theme in the next surviving letter in the file, dated Dec. 2, 1885: "I mail you today a copy of my 80th Catalogue, and beg you will give it a perusal. Amongst the Dimes and ½ Dimes you will notice a few remarkable pieces. No. 1036 I believe is the finest specimen existing.

"I also venture to call your attention to 2065; and No. 2120 cannot be surpassed. You, of course, know it as one of the rarest of American coins.

"Will you buy my Nova Constellatio, or silver Bit? I will sell it to you for less than I have ever offered it, having always held it at $550. I have repeatedly been offered $300 for it. I will now sell it for $450. A gentleman is very desirous of possessing it, but has taken the trouble to announce that he will never buy it. I have taken equal pains to declare publicly that he never shall have it from me. [Must be Parmelee!] I would, of course, be glad to sell the piece, which I regard today as more valuable than any other American coin.

"I think you have Catalogue No. 73 in which the piece is illustrated."

Garrett apparently expressed interest, for Woodward wrote again on December 24: "Your favor was received during my absence, hence the delay in my replying, which you will kindly excuse. The 'Bit' I forward today by Express.

"On Sat. last I received another coin of scarcely less rarity which I take the liberty to send for your examination. You will recognize it at once as the French Colonial Quarter Crown struck for or by Law of the Mississippi Scheme, so well known as the Miss. Bubble. A full account of this coin written by Prof. Chas. E. Anthon may be found in the American Journal of Numismatics, another by R. W. McLachlan in the same work.

"If you happen to have the catalogue of the Collection of 1783. Nova Constellatio Pattern Mark. Mentioned in Woodward's A.J.N. "Press Release" of April, 1885.

George M. Parsons [Frossard's 47th, Oct., 1885], a little better description may be found therein. Parsons' was offered at limit of $325. I have never before possessed the coin. I think the number known is limited to either 3 or 4. I know of three and suspect the one sent you is a fourth. I never had the opportunity of purchasing one but once, one of the three referred to which was offered to me for $450.

"A Canadian collector proposed to buy this one (the one sent) at $250, but the owner, feeling doubtful about the responsibility of the man, declined to send the piece even on approval, so he sold it to me at a reduced price. I offer it at $200, and considering its rarity the price must be considered very moderate . . . P.S. Having another very rare piece in my pocket which I know you would like to see, I send it for your examination. I sold one not long ago in silver for $45, one in copper like this but bearing no comparison to it in quality, still a good one, sold at much lower price. The price of this one is $40 . . ." Unfortunately, there is no further indication of the identity of the last piece mentioned.

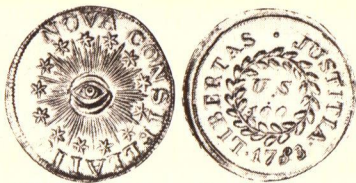

So around Christmas of 1885 the silver Bit from the Nova Constellatio series was "visiting" at the Garrett home! Garrett did not buy it, however, and when it returned to the collection at the time of John Garrett's purchase of the Ellsworth Collection in 1923, John had no idea that it had been there nearly 40 years earlier, for he never knew of the existence of these correspondence files of his

"1064 1783 The Bit or Bill, or piece of 100 units. Unique pattern coin of the United States. An eye on a plain field within a glory or sun of thirteen points; between the points thirteen stars forming a circle; legend, "NOVA CONSTELLATIO"; rev., a wreath of olive leaves enclosing the letters U.S. and the figures 100; legend, "LIBERTAS JUSTITIA, 1783." Size 11; weight 27 grains or nearly. The edge of the coin ornamented with leaf-work. This coin was offered for sale in the Addenda to my sale No. 73 and was limited to a starting bid of $550.00, for want of which it was withdrawn. It is now offered, without limit, for positive sale. I have declined an actual cash offer of $300.00 from a dealer, and a conditional offer of $400.00 from a collector. A much fuller account of the piece may be found in the Addenda referred to, a copy of which will be sent free on application. The obverse of the piece is illustrated in my Catalogue No. 73, and the reverse is illustrated in this Catalogue, copies of which, with one or more plates, will be forwarded on receipt of order, for 35 cents."

The "conditional offer" of $400 must have been from Garrett, and have been dealt with in missing letters of early 1885. The Bit did, indeed, sell in the 83rd Sale, but it realized only $272, passing into Parmelee's collection with the other three Novas. After being "bought in" by Parmelee they were eventually sold, circa 1904, to Ellsworth, coming thence to Garrett in March, 1923. At that time the Bit cost John Garrett $1,000, though he sold off his other specimen—plain edge—for $2,200 which more than covered it.

It is noteworthy that at no point did any further information surface concerning the mysterious "old Scotch collector" who had "recently died," the original Bit coming to light in the subsequent "auction" of his estate, probably "in Glasgow." Even today the standard reference works list only father with the coin dealers of that earlier period! They were only found in the 1950's, long after his death, underneath numerous inventory lists and business letters from the Garrett interests during the 1880's.

The Bit was again offered at auction in Woodward's 83rd Sale, the Twining Collection, April 27-29, 1886, as Lot 1064 (preceded three lots earlier by the 1607 "John Law" Quarter Crown offered Garrett in the Dec. 24 letter):

an "old Scottish collection" as source for the Bit. Yet this need not mean that Woodward was unable to find out anything further. In fact, there is a fair likelihood that both he and certain others—Randall amongst them—found out rather more than they wanted, and not too long after the 1886 sale in which Parmelee bought the Bit!

By a happy chance, while reading my way through some old British auction catalogues of the 1880's during the Summer of 1977, I encountered the catalogue of a sale held in Birmingham, England, at the end of November, 1886: catalogued and owned by E. Shorthouse, Esq., of that city and auctioned by Ludlow, Roberts & Wheeler, the title page reproduced elsewhere in this article. Though the sale consisted of the Greek, Roman, Anglo-Saxon, Scotch and English pieces in Shorthouse's collection, the author went into an interesting 5-page discussion concerning American numismatics, beginning at page 59 of the lengthy catalogue. Though the section immediately concerning us occupies but about one page of the five, the rest seems of sufficient interest to U.S. collectors to be worth inclusion here in full, especially since the catalogue seems to have had an exceptionally low survival rate in private hands over here (though there is a copy in the A.N.S. Library, where it has gone unread, Lo! these many years, by those working on Colonial Americana.)

We are pleased to be able to present here, in the words of the numismatist who sent the Bit to Woodward, the story of its origin, acquisition and disposal:

TO AMERICAN COIN COLLECTORS.

STOLEN,

from an English Gentleman's Coin Cabinet, end of April, 1886, a valuable set of "Lord Baltimore" silver money, consisting of the Shilling, Sixpence, and rare Groat, in unusually fine condition.

THE GROAT DESCRIBED.

A fine, circular coin, unclipped and perfect; the reverse excellent, the hair of the portrait on the obverse rather worn, the face not well struck up, with a peculiar depression or sinking in of the cheek.

THE THIEF.

As some months have now been judiciously allowed to pass by quietly, it is judged that the thief will about now have gained courage to offer his stolen coins—probably, it is thought, in America. As the above Groat has not been offered to the public for years in America, its sudden appearance this summer will attract attention.

Any Private Collector, Auctioneer, or Dealer who may have heard of a fine Baltimore Groat being offered this summer (or in future) is asked to obtain access to, and particularly notice the coin, and to take a rubbing off it. A well-known and respectable English dealer, and the owner, will undertake to identify and swear to this groat for years to come, singling it out in a moment from any number. Rubbings have been retained off it.

NOT THE FIRST TIME.

From the adroitness shown by the thief (a worthless U. S. token and another coin being slipped into the space left by the theft, which might otherwise have attracted attention on replacing the cabinet drawer), the detectives consider that this is not the first time this man has purloined coins at gentlemen's houses, and it seems desirable that his family should know that the father is a common thief at large, dangerous to Society.

Any person in America or England who gives such information as may bring the theft home shall receive a P.O. order for £5, also a beautiful U.S. 1796 cent., with the cap, in absolutely Mint condition, for his trouble.

Address, Mr. E. Shorthouse, 5, Charlotte Road, Edgbaston, Birmingham, England, Member of the London Numismatic Society.

THREE YEARS' AMERICAN COIN COLLECTING IN ENGLAND.

The following experiences, it was thought, might amuse and interest Brother Collectors across the Atlantic. Being in easy circumstances, and lacking the talents of his Brother, whose "John Inglesant" has been so well received in America, travels over the world and various "hobbies" have taken up some twenty years. The last hobby was coin collecting, only commenced in 1881. Five years ago fine coins were to be had at about half present prices, and a tremendous "hoard" was obtained. English, American, Canadian, French, Early German, Manx, &c. The nucleus of the last was Dr. Clay's hoard, sold for a mere song in New York. Coming back—through Mr. Randall—and persistently added to, it now forms (so say the dealers) "The finest collection of Manx (Isle of Man) in the world."

AMERICAN COINS.

As late as 1882 U.S. coins were to be picked up in England very cheaply, now they very seldom occur. Our ignorance of them was, and still is, in most cases, profound. We considered 5s. a fair price for an uncirculated 1796 cent. (not the humorously called "cabinet friction uncirculated" of the U. S.

sales), but absolutely as from the die; like a proof. A very fine 1795 cent., with thick lettered edge, a gentleman had put out of his collection amongst his "wasters." "These," he remarked, "I do not value at anything." They went at one shilling apiece. A lovely 1794 dollar stood for two years in the "Bureau de Change" window, Charing Cross Station, London, staring at the British public; the writer could have had it a dozen times at £1. Finally swept off by good Mr. Randall on his last visit to the British Isles. Four or five fine 1796 half-cents. were also waiting in Birmingham for the latter. We considered them worth about half-a-crown; indeed, a fine one came in from Derby while Mr. Randall was in Birmingham at the modest price of one shilling!

A DISCOVERY.

Discovery of the Unique Pattern small Silver "Bit," or "Bill" (1783), of 100 units. Obv., U. S., in wreath, "Libertas, Justitia;" rev., "Nova Constelatia," eye, rays, and stars (size of English sixpence).

During his three years' hunt the writer acquired the above "welcome little stranger." Knowing about as much about it as the average Christian knows about the Origin of Evil, he forwarded it to his friend Mr. W. Elliot Woodward, of America, one of those dealers (unfortunately "few and far between") with whom an English gentleman can deal with safety and pleasure. He at once candidly stated that it was "gem!" Although its existence had for years been suspected (ever since Mr. Mickley's sale in 1867), only the dollar and half-dollar had been discovered. Both these are in the grand collection of L. G. Parmelee, Esq., Boston, where the writer trusts his little "Bit" has also found a home.

HOW 2s. 3d. (55 CENTS.) BECAME £54 ($272).

Placed in Mr. W.'s 73rd sale (April, 1885) at the well-meaning, judicious reserve of $550 (£110), it finally went off in the 83rd sale, April 27th, 1886 (Lot 1,064), for $272 (£54).

The fact was, it was obtained (with some other small U. S. coins) for 2s. 3d. (55 cents.) from the shop window of T. F. Cloud, Pawnbroker, 207, High Holborn, London. This incident is mentioned as an encouragement to young beginners in numismatics. It is something for a mere novice to add an hitherto unknown example to the coin series of a great Empire.

"PLUMS."

Amongst the hundreds of U. S. coins he has now got together in very beautiful condition only a few "plums" can be mentioned. An "Ameri" cent., in mint condition; another, fine; a 1795 cent., thick lettered edge, in absolutely uncirculated state (an extremely rare coin in such a state); a 1796, with cap, in equal condition, resembles a proof; six fine 1793 cents., with four distinct types of leaves under bust; 23 cents of 1794, all different types, some in mint state; two fine 1804 cents., the last cost 4½d. (9 cents.); a 1799 cent. in mint state was just missed at 7s. 6d., which seemed fairly moderate; 1793-4-5 and 1796 half-cents, nearly mint; Rosa Americana sets (mint); New England shilling; Annanapolis ditto, very fine; 1796 and 1797 dimes. as from the die; a brilliant proof of the 1796 quarter-dollar; Baltimore money (not yet stolen); rows of "pine" and "oak tree" money, some very fine; 1795, &c., silver dollars, in brilliant mint; Bank of Montreal 1838 and '39 (side view of house), in perfect mint state; and an extreme rarity, the "Pitt, No Stamps," cent., in the small half-cent. size, almost mint; one other of these only has occurred in England since he began collecting, namely, a poor one in Frentzel's sale, December, 1881, at Sotherby's, Strand.

IN CONCLUSION.

American coins, compared with those of other nations, appear to the writer to be unquestionably the most uninteresting series in the world. No portraits of past Presidents—no historical memories awakened—nothing but rows of coins almost exactly alike, save an interminable row of different dates.

The (no doubt) well-meaning, but everlasting, eagle (manipulating a claw full of spears with indifferent success), and the equally interminable Female Portrait (whom no one seems to know, but who, like Queen Victoria, retains her youthful features on the coins, as the ages roll by, in a wondrous manner), are certainly discouraging to a collector. Feeling, therefore, no interest in them, save the financial one, it is suggested that some American gentleman, wishing to acquire a very fine U. S. collection, had better come over next summer (1887)—visit the proposed U. S. Exhibition in London—and take away the collection to that Great and Amazing Country (which the writer visited with such pleasure in 1876), to which it properly belongs, and where it will doubtless be properly appreciated.

WATSON AND BALL, PRINTERS, BIRMINGHAM.

"So the infamous "old Scotch collector" was as much a myth as the "auction" of his collection "in Glasgow"! A pawnshop window in East London! Not only that: Woodward would scarcely have invented such a tale himself; others, much more plausible, were available. Nor would he have taken a tale he knew to be false to the pages of the A.J.N. No, Woodward must have been fed this story by Shorthouse himself, believed it and used it in his article and his catalogues. As Randall was apparently well known to Shorthouse, he, at least, must have seen this auction catalogue from Birmingham in late 1886; Woodward probably also saw it as his overseas connections were substantial. It would not have been to the benefit of either of them—they worked closely together for years—to release the true story once they learned it. Nor would it have been to Parmelee's advantage.

Someone, however, did "spill the beans" (a fitting phrase considering Parmelee's fortune came from baked beans!) in 1887, and we cannot claim obscurity of the publication as a reason for having missed this one all these years: the American Journal of Numismatics, Vol.20, April, 1887, pp.81-2, had a practically complete and almost verbatim account of Shorthouse's "digression" in that 1886 Birmingham catalogue! The entire business about finding the Bit in Cloud's pawnshop is included. The information, therefore, would have been well known at the time of the Parmelee Sale in 1890, and thus not included in that catalogue. Over the years, the information was gradually lost, since the next public auction of the Bit did not take place until December, 1979, in the Garrett Sale, when the coin passed to John J. Ford, Jr.

Peripheral evidence that Woodward and Shorthouse had some differences of opinion about matters once this story broke comes from a later event: In 1889.

 FRIDAY, DECEMBER 6TH,

COMMENCING AT TWO O'CLOCK, P.M.

December, 1889, while Woodward was still quite active in cataloguing sales, Shorthouse decided to sell his American coin holdings at auction. He did not, however, bring them to his old acquaintance, Woodward. Instead, his collection appeared as a Chapman Sale on December 6, 1889!

Nearly a year elapsed between the last letter we examined, Dec. 24, 1885, and the final letter in the Woodward file, dated Dec. 20, 1886, though there must have been a fair correspondence during the intervening months. The last letter, not in Woodward's own handwriting, seems to be continuing a subject begun before:

"I received the medals from California, bought so long ago from my friend Dohrmann, who I am pained to say has recently died. I had never seen Mr. Dohrmann, but had come to cherish a warm friendship for him through a pleasant correspondence of many years.

"These medals, or casts of medals, were got up by order of the old French adventurer Daniel E. Groux. Groux was always distinguished for his humbuggery and dishonesty. He managed to get acquainted with and take advantage of a number of great and excellent men. Among them were Daniel Webster, Chas. Francis Adams, Edward Everett, and Dr. Winslow Lewis, the last one of the most lovely men I ever knew, I think the most charming character with the possible exception of Jas. Carson Brevoort of Brooklyn, N.Y.

"The three medals which I think particularly you want I am glad to say are here. They are in the parcel marked 1. The presidential, naval and military medals, usually called the national medals, I have put together in another parcel containing 47 pieces, marked 2. The Lee medal, perhaps as rare as any, is in the paper marked 3. The large Washington medal, if original, in paper No. 4, is worth from $20 to $50. Package No. 5 contains in all 20 pieces, 3 extremely scarce politicals, casts, facsimilies, etc.

"All these I send in a single bundle. If you want them, you are at liberty to take lots 1, 2, 3, 4, 52 pieces, for say $25. I am not quite sure but I think the sets of national medals cost originally $75. If you take the 5 parcels, 72 in number, I will charge you $28. The entire lot received from Mr. Dohrmann numbers, in addition to those before enumerated, 429 pieces, for which I allowed him $50 and the freight from California, say $55, for which sum I would be glad to sell you the entire lot. If you would like them I will ship them to you immediately. The remainder of the medals are mostly French, some English and other nationalities, the quality and style like those sent herewith. The variety is great, containing scarcely any duplicates.

"Passing now to the subject of Archaeology, I mailed you Saturday another catalogue of my 92d Sale. Referring you to the catalogue itself I beg to call your attention to the following numbers; many that I do not mention are equally noticeable and desirable. I may say that to get together such a number of rarities would require the ransacking of all American collections. I send you a catalogue with the numbers marked thus +. Those marked with 2 or more crosses I deem especially worthy of notice. [A list of lot numbers follows without comment.]

"Should you choose to favor my sale with an order, I will endeavor to obtain all that you may require and to obtain them at the lowest possible prices . . ."

We noted earlier that Garrett was turning his attention more toward archaeological and medallic items than coins as time passed. Medals seem to have become his sole field of numismatics at some point after the Maris Collection Sale in the Summer of 1886 (for which see the Newlin article). Correspondence probably continued with Woodward longer than with any other coin dealer: of the meager 14 auction catalogues in the Garrett Library dated after the Maris Sale (none at all for nearly nine months thereafter) seven are from Woodward, including Woodward's own last extensive series of sales, the 95th through 102nd between May and October of 1888, some dated after Garrett's death in the latter year. Woodward himself was to issue only six more catalogues after that time, ending with his 108th Sale in April, 1890, after which failing health apparently led him to reduce his activities.

William Elliot Woodward, through whose agency the Garrett Collection had been increased by so many superb rarities, died of pneumonia on January 5, 1892, at the age of 66. A fine and heartfelt obituary appeared in the American Journal of Numismatics, January, 1892, pp. 70-71, written by "M", probably his old friend William Marvin, the Masonic specialist, printer of the A.J.N., and father-in-law of Howland Wood. Yet perhaps the best epitaph he received came in the pages of the fledgling publication of that day, The Numismatist, volume 4, page 25, from Heath's own pen: "A Prince of the House of Numisma has fallen."

FROM YOUR PRESIDENT

George D. Hatie

The results of the questionnaire relating to the numbered-seat, staggered-term election procedure were tabulated as of January 31, 1980. In view of the lead time required for the submission of material to The Numismatist, it is quite likely that many of you are already aware of the outcome of the tabulation. A total of 8,852 questionnaires were completed by the members with the following results:

QUESTION 1

In favor of numbered seats - 4,528

In favor of election-at-large - 4,131

Voted for both - 6

Did not vote on Question 1 - 187.

QUESTION 2

In favor of staggered four-year terms - 6,083

In favor of nonstaggered, two-year terms - 2,573

Voted for both - 3

Did not vote on Question 2 - 193.

As you know, the numbered seat, staggered-term procedures were adopted by a five-to-four and later rescinded by a five-to-four vote of the members of the board of governors. I proposed a questionnaire because I believe a majority of the members of the association should make decision on questions involving their voting rights, rather than to have their rights determined by the vote of one board member. By the time you read this I shall have requested the board at the Albuquerque meeting to reinstate the numbered seat, four-year staggered term procedures and shall vote in favor of the reinstatement.

As early as 1948, Abe Kosoff suggested a majority election of ANA governors. Subsequent proposals for regional representation on the ANA board have been considered and rejected. Several members, in submitting their questionnaires, indicated a preference for regional representation. If a majority of the board is inclined to consider the question of regional representation, a definite plan must be presented to the board. In my opinion, the board should not substitute a regional plan for the numbered seat system without first submitting an additional questionnaire to the members.

Space does not permit a detailed discussion of the pros and cons of regional representation, but I intend to express my views on this subject in a future issue of The Numismatist.

I shall have also submitted to the board at the Albuquerque meeting a revised bylaw provision for the advanced publication in The Numismatist of any bylaw amendment that would affect the voting rights of the members of the association or the structure of the board of governors. This provision will replace the former objection about the bylaw notice provision that was rescinded in St. Louis.

Washington Medals By Charles Cushing Wright

Those of you who are interested in Washington medals will instantly recognize the pictured medal as part of the medallistic memorabilia of the 1889 Centennial of Washington's inauguration as President. Susan Douglas, in her monograph, "George Washington Medals of 1889," lists it as #52 and notes that it was struck in both bronze and white metal. (A reportedly unique specimen in lead was sold in the W.W.C. Wilson Sale in 1925.) Artistically speaking, it is probably the finest medal of this series and, while rather common, is prized by collectors for its fine craftsmanship. Indeed, in 1889 the American Journal of Numismatics commented on the medal that, "The portrait is by the late C.C. Wright, and though never before published, it is said to be his finest work, and the best reproduction on a medal of the original by Houdon."

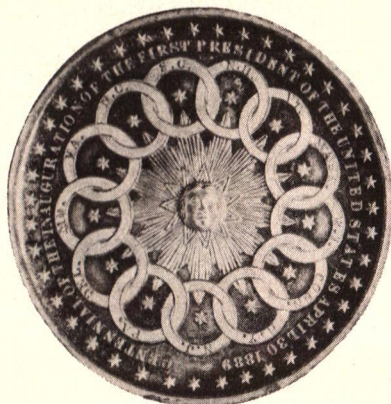

Charles Cushing Wright is best known as one of the founders of the New York City die-sinking firm of Wright and Bale and as the artist responsible for some of the finest of our national medals. The 3 1/2 inch Mexican War medals awarded to Gen. Zachary Taylor for the victory at Buena Vista and to Gen. Winfield Scott for his series of victories are two of his most outstanding works. Wright was a prolific medallist who excelled in portraiture. The main body of his work was executed in the late 1840's through the early 1850's. It is, therefore, puzzling that his fine portrait of Washington should first come to light on a medal dated 1889. But this mystery has been solved and, in the process of solving it, new light has been shed upon the genesis of the rare Bushnell-Wright medal of Washington.

The Bushnell-Wright medal, although dated 1855, was not listed by W.S. Baker in his "Medallistic Portraits of Washington," which was published in 1883. The medal is pictured in the 1965 reprint of Baker under the heading "Pieces Not Listed by Baker" and is accompanied by George Fuld's notation "The 1853 Bushnell Medal by C.C. Wright UNIQUE in silver (ex-Bushnell, Parsons, W.W.C. Wilson Colls.)."

The sale of the Charles I. Bushnell collection by S.H. & H. Chapman in 1882 was a major event for the collectors of Washingtonia. The sale listed over 300 Washington pieces. However, the Bushnell-Wright medal does not appear in the Washingtonia section, although examples of all of the unique tokens struck specially for Bushnell do appear. Under the heading HUBS AND DIES there does appear the following:

2816. Die. Bust of above (Washington) C.C.W. beneath. Perfect Condition; but one impression taken from it.

2817. Dies. Very fine bust to left, by C.C. Wright; on a scroll in field, INSCRIBED TO HIS MEMORY BY CHAS. I. BUSHNELL OF NEW YORK: 1853 beneath bust. Rev. Die. The sun bearing a head of Washington in a glory of rays, surrounded by thirteen links, each bearing the initials of a state, in center of each star; FILL BLESSED SUN WITH LUSTRE BRIGHT, THE 13 STARS YOU BROUGHT TO LIGHT. This splendid die, from which we do not know of an impression, is in perfect condition. While these are two separate dies, they will be sold as one lot.

It is significant to note that there exists a rare mule of the Bushnell-Wright reverse with an unfinished Wright die of Washington which conforms exactly to the description of the die in #2816.

The fact that the Bushnell-Wright medal and the muling of its reverse with the unfinished Washington obverse were unknown to Baker combined with the appearance of all three dies together in the Bushnell sale leads me to believe that these two medals were not struck until the 1880's. They were probably made at the behest of the Chapman brothers, who undoubtedly purchased the dies from their Bushnell Sale.

The supposition is partially confirmed by the fact that it was the Chapman brothers who published the 1889 medal described as Douglas 52. A comparison of this medal with the Bushnell-Wright medal reveals that the two medals are identical but for the surrounding legends and the substitution of the sun for the head of Washington in the center of the reverse. My conclusion is that the Chapmans purchased the aforementioned dies, struck a very few copies in silver, brass and copper and then retooled the dies, eradicating the Bushnell inscriptions and the small head of Washington and adding the legends appearing on the 1889 medal and the small head of the sun.—H.J.L.

The authors encourage comments, suggestions, and additional information on reported pieces from readers, and ask that all inquiries be directed to David E. Schenkman, P. O. Box 375, Bryans Road, MD 20616.

Reverse Die Mulings Seen on $2½ Gold Dates Beware of Reoccurring Coin Defects

A series of counterfeit quarter eagles dated 1883, 1884 and 1885 were recently examined by the ANACS staff. It was found that all three dates had the identical reverse diagnostic points; a single counterfeit reverse die was muled with three different dated counterfeit obverse dies. This type of muling is characteristic of many counterfeit operations. The counterfeiter saves the cost of additional dies, normally the undated die, by muling the undated die with various dated dies of the same denomination. The counterfeiter's need to cut corners in an effort to increase the profit margin often makes our work much easier, because we can pick out depressions that were transferred from the original genuine coin, through the counterfeiter's dies, to the fake coins.

- Odd lumps and lines through the denomination.

- A rather large lump midway between the upper curve of the eagle's beak and the bottom of the A in STATES.

- Numerous raised lumps and lines through STATES.

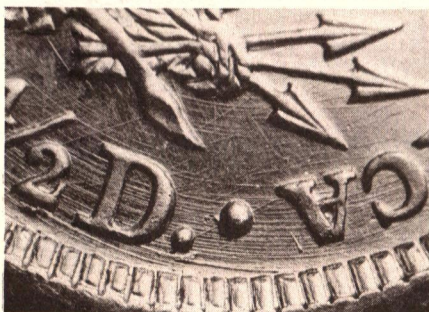

This series of counterfeit coins graphically illustrates a point we try to drive home to everyone who attends an ANACS Seminar. We continually stress the fact that people should catalog the die and coin defects of every coin that they handle that has a numismatic value. The response we get most often is, "I haven't got time to do that" and our stock reply is, "You haven't got enough money not to do it." Yet we leave the seminar wondering how many, if any, of those people will take our advice.

We would guess that one of the reasons why they hesitate to take the time is because, at that point, they are not sure if they are looking at a genuine or a counterfeit coin. But, if they do take the time to note diagnostic points of the coins they look at, and then later find the identical things (especially the depressions that look like damage) on other coins they will be able to make a determination about whether the coins in question are genuine or not. If they find an identical series of depressions on several coins, especially on the undated side of coins covering more than one year, they can be almost positive that they are looking at some counterfeit coins.

In this latest series, and we have no way of knowing when they actually hit the numismatic market, a number of things were catalogued for one of the dates and later compared with the other two dates which matched. Undoubtedly there are still more dates which we haven't yet seen.

- A depression on the dot between the 2 of the denomination and the U of UNITED.

- A depression on the upper portion of the vertical section of the D of UNITED.

Before we get an irate letter from our friend in Detroit telling us about the detailed Royal Mint records which indicate that a single hub was used to produce dies for several years' coinage which could indeed result in identical depressions, we must point out that the former Chief Assayer and Chemist for the Royal Mint, and the same person who has prepared evidence and appeared as the Crown's Expert Witness in the resulting cases, agrees with our conclusion . . . the odds against finding a series of depressions that repeats on a number of coins is so astronomical that finding such a series of depressions should be considered evidence of counterfeit coins.

Those who have read the ANACS articles in The Numismatist since the ANACS office was moved to Colorado Springs in October 1976 may note that we seem to place more emphasis on raised defects than we do on depressions. The photos we've used to illustrate our articles and the slides used in our counterfeit detection seminars seem to bear that out. Yes, we do point out raised defects more often than we do depressions because those raised defects are usually much larger and more easily seen with low-power magnifiers in low lighting conditions, but the original determinations are usually made because we've catalogued a series of repeating depressions on a number of coins and sometimes that determination is reinforced by weight and specific gravity tests.

Counterfeit, 1885

The coins of the three dates covered in this article (1883, 1884 and 1885) had normal specific gravity results, and the weights ranged from a low of 4.171 grams to a high of 4.208 grams (64.368 to 64.939 for those who have not yet converted their records from grains). Normal weight should be 4.180 grams (64.507 grains), plus or minus 0.016 grams (0.25 grains). Specifications of the quarter eagles and all other United States coins were included in the September 1978 issue of The Numismatist on pages 1844 and 1845. Those of you who do not have access to that issue can obtain a reprint from ANACS simply by enclosing a first class postage stamp with your request.

How Much Bullion is There in a Coin?

Frequently ANACS receives inquiries to determine the amount of bullion in a coin. The answer is relatively easy with the use of the following table. Multiply the weight of the coin by the purity of the alloy and multiply that figure by the appropriate conversion factor from the table.

NUMISMATIC VIGNETTES

■ Who was ANA member no. 1? Recently a member wrote to ask if John Jones was one of the charter members and opined that maybe readers would like to see a list of the charter members. Mr. Jones was, indeed, a charter member—no. 9.

A letter was found many years ago among the effects of ANA founder Dr. Heath by his son, Donald, who presented it to the Association. The letter was published in the October 1925 issue of The Numismatist and is republished herewith.

Friend Heath:

Thanks for your sketch, thanks for your approval of my plan, thanks for your promise of an ad. Send along the copy as if The Numismatist were already subsidized. Thanks, heartily, for your offer of electrotypes. "Ye gods, this is too much!" Still, I am bound to accept. Enclosed is an official list of (charter) members, with numbers; also of applicants for admission.

ANA Life Membership Landmark Nears

On May 9, 1979, the ANA received its 100,000th application for membership, the applicant being Californian Miss Michelle Lopez. Another membership landmark will be reached in the near future, quite likely in March, when life member number 2500 will be assigned on a chance basis.

Certain special life member numbers have been reserved in the past upon request, but this one will be assigned to the application received when number 2500 comes up in the normal sequence. A distinctive metallic card will be up for the lucky member who draws number 2500.

The life member class was established at the 1922 New York City convention, and 8 members applied at that time. It took about 51 years to reach the halfway mark to number 2500 but only about 6½ years to go the second halfway.

It looks like a bargain today—the $50 LM fee in effect from 1922 to early 1947 during which period 201 life members were enrolled. At this writing, 80 of these are still living and reaping a benefit of their foresight. Even with today's high rate of interest, one cannot earn the $15 annual dues with $50 in a savings account.

At the 1971 convention the board took two actions relative to life memberships: 1) a plan was adopted by which the fee could be paid over a 12-month period, and 2) the previous requirement of three or more years membership was abolished. While these actions had a bearing on the greater number of life membership applications received, the specter of inflation probably was the major factor.

As of January 1, 1980, about 2150 individual life members were on the mailing list of ANA, bearing LM numbers from 41 to 2414. Today's LM fee of $350 earns more interest than the amount of the annual dues, it's true, but what about the future when inflation is sure to push the cost of regular membership up?

For an application and further information, about life membership in the ANA, see page 605 or write to: Membership Department, P.O. Box 2366, Colorado Springs, CO 80901.

FEATURING YOUNG NUMISMATISTS

ROMAN COIN PROJECT

by David R. Cervin, ANA 65523

Originated and administered by David R. Cervin, the Roman Coin Project is a program specially designed for junior members of the ANA to earn Roman and Byzantine coins for their activities in numismatics. Up to eight coins can be earned, four Roman coins in the initial program, and four Byzantine coins in the advanced section.

In the initial program, the first three coins can be earned from numismatic participation in three of six categories: educational presentations, exhibiting, writing, club office, show committee chairmanship, or receiving a badge in numismatics from your youth group. The fourth coin must be earned by completing the ANA's Young Numismatists Correspondence Course. In the advanced program, coin number five is earned by signing up a new ANA member, coin number six by signing up two additional members, coin number seven for the publication of at least 500 words in a major numismatic publication, and coin number eight for planning and executing an exhibit of the coins earned thus far in the program.

For further information or a Roman Coin Request Form write David R. Cervin, 6201 Adirondack, Amarillo, TX 79106.

Another first has been achieved in the Roman Coin Project. David MacPherson, Shippensburg Pa., number nine to complete the entire program, makes it a point to read the fine print. Recently, the completion of the Intermediate Numismatic Correspondance Course (INCC) was introduced as an alternate way to earn coin No. 6. (Actually this is coin No. 2 in the advanced portion of the RCP.) The original way to earn this coin, signing a second and third new member to the ANA, proved to a tough assignment for most juniors, and a real stumbling block for others. Adding the completion of the INCC as an alternate method for earning coin number six could make the entire program easier for many.

David is a graduate of the program and, at least for completion, does not need this alternate. However, the fine print stated that those who did both, i.e. signed two new ANA members and completed the INCC, would receive two coins. Also, for those who had completed the program, another Byzantine coin would be awarded. David has completed the INCC and is the first to earn a coin under these conditions.

In addition, David recently reached the age of eighteen which places him out of the junior classification. But here is one of the true beauties of the RCP. If as little as a single coin is earned before reaching one's eighteenth birthday, then the entire program can be worked out until one's twentieth birthday. David is now one of several who has earned Roman and Byzantine coins under these circumstances.

Just what extra coin did David earn for his post-graduate eighteen years plus work? He has received a follis of John I, AD 969-976, a coin which carries tremendous historical significance as the first bronze coin to feature a portrait of Christ. The distinction of striking the first coin to bear Christ's portrait goes to Justinian II, AD 685-695, first reign. However, his was a gold solidus and is presently valued between fifteen hundred and two thousand dollars. He issued a second during his second reign, 705-711, with a current price tag of about twelve hundred dollars. But very few portraits, even in gold, were issued during the next couple of centuries, and it remained for John I to reintroduce this striking late in the tenth century.

Do I have any more of these historical firsts struck by John I? Yes, half a dozen or so, and they are carefully being set aside for those who earn two coins under category six.

The coin that David earned shows a nimbus (halo) and cruciger (cross), and has the letters IC (Jesus) and XC (Christ) to the left and right respectively of Christ's bust. The reverse legend reads, in Greek-Latin, "Jesus Christ, King of Kings." Note that Emperor John's name appears nowhere on the coin, very exceptional for reigning monarchs at any time in history. It was the start of nearly one hundred years of "anonymous" coinage for the Byzantines.

The average junior cannot afford to buy this type of coin. Nor, for that matter, can he/she afford any of the other Byzantine or Roman coins made available at no cost to juniors in this program. But it only takes a little effort at enjoying your hobby to earn these coins. Are you eligible even if you are the minimum age of twelve? You certainly are! Many twelve-year olds have earned several coins, and you should too.

Don't delay. Write me immediately for complete instructions and a Roman coin request form.

Dr. Jonas Salk Honored

A few days before his sixty-fifth birthday, Dr. Jonas Salk graciously agreed to meet with Mel Wacks, numismatic consultant to the Magnes Museum, and noted sculptor Hal Reed. This personal sitting enabled the artist to create a memorable portrait for the twelfth issue in the distinguished Jewish-American Hall of Fame series of medallion art. The reverse design speaks eloquently and movingly without any inscription. Victory over the dreaded disease of poliomyelitis (infantile paralysis) is celebrated by two children on the grounds of the Salk Institute, as a past victim looks on.

Jonas Edward Salk, born in New York City on October 28, 1914, graduated from the City College of New York, and was a research fellow at the University of Michigan where he helped in the development of an influenza vaccine and served as a member of the U.S. Army Influenza Commission. At the University of Pittsburgh's School of Medicine, he became research professor of bacteriology in 1949, professor of preventive medicine in 1954, and finally professor of experimental medicine from 1957-1963. Salk served as an expert on virus diseases for the World Health Organization in 1961, and two years later founded the Salk Institute.

At the University of Pittsburgh, Salk did research into poliomyelitis, developing immunological methods to distinguish different types of the virus. He then developed a vaccine prepared by inactivating the virus. Massive field trials conducted by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis in 1954 confirmed the effectiveness of the vaccine, which became the first weapon against the polio scourge.

The Jonas Salk medal will be struck in high relief, individually hand finished, and sequentially serial numbered on the edge. The massive 2 inch medals weigh about 2.5 troy ounces for the antique bronze and .999 silver versions; the 10 karat gold pieces (plated with 24 karat gold) weigh about 2.75 troy ounces. The maximum authorized mintages are 1000 bronze, 100 silver, and only 35 gold. A quick sellout of the silver and gold editions is anticipated, so an early order is recommended.

The money raised through the sale of the Salk medals will help fund educational projects of the non-profit Magnes Museum, and accordingly half of their cost is tax-deductible. These handsome art medals are available for a contribution of $15 for bronze, $165 for pure silver, and $1350 for 10 karat gold on a strict first come - first served basis. Delivery can be expected within 90 days. Orders should be sent to the Magnes Museum, c/o Mel Wacks, 5189 Jeffdale Avenue, Woodland Hills, CA 91364.

CINCINNATI

ANA Medal Features Cincinnati Landmark, The Genius of Waters

by Richard B. Dusterberg

Although she is symbolic of Cincinnati, the majestic lady who graces the Association's 1980 convention medal is not just another allegorical representation of a government expressed in the image of a woman. She is the Genius of Waters, the personified spirit of the god-given gift, water. The Genius surmounts the Tyler Davidson fountain on Cincinnati's Fountain Square, a minute's walk from the Convention Center where ANA will spend a week this summer.

So symbolic of Cincinnati has the Fountain become, that when Cincinnati Numismatic Association members gathered a year ago to consider a theme or topic for the Association's medal, they found themselves in immediate accord on the Fountain. The only real concern was whether the medium of the medal would be sufficient to express the abstraction that the monumental fountain represents. The Fountain is a composition in the complete sense. Topics and subjects are arranged in artistic proportions so that each enhances the whole work. And because the whole work is both monumental and detailed, its occasional use on medallic works has not been particularly successful.

The Committee therefore proposed that only the Genius be portrayed. She is the crowning figure in the composition. God's gift of flowing water falls from her fingers to the use and benefit of the other figures in the tableau.

Sculptor Neil Harris visited the city and studied the work at length, becoming increasingly enamored with his subject. Like so many, he found merit in each figure that the original sculptor had created. But he agreed one device should be chosen and the obvious selection was the Genius. The obverse of the medal is therefore devoted to her alone.

Cincinnati dedicated its fountain in the autumn of 1871 at a site only a few feet from its present location on Fountain Square. The unveiling culminated a five year effort by Henry Probasco, a man determined to thank his city for the opportunities it had afforded him and to honor his business colleague and deceased brother-in-law, Tyler Davidson. The pedestal beneath the Genius records his motive: "To The People of Cincinnati." Tyler Davidson's name occupies the adjacent side of the pedestal.

Probasco toured Europe looking for an appropriate design and found his gift among discarded drawings at the Royal Bronze Foundry of Bavaria. It had been designed nearly a quarter century earlier by a young German artist, August von Kreling, who conceived the composition as a bold, contemporary departure from the sculptural genre that prevailed in Europe in the mid-nineteenth century. Fountains and other representational work of the period usually drew on classical themes, frequently mythological. The traditional sculptor of the day was likely to construct water statuary with the likes of Neptune, nymphs, sirens, naiads and the like.

Kreling wanted realism. He accepted abstraction but presented his theme in the form of a realistic woman who he called the "Genius." It is a little-used word in this context which means literally, a spirit or an embodiment of a spirit. From the outstretched hands of this embodied spirit, waters flow in a fine spray as a blessing bestowed on the other figures in the composition.

While the Genius represents the abstract blessing, the figures surrounding the central column illustrate the utility of water. A woman offers water to drink to an older man, perhaps her father. A farmer looks to the heavens for rain while he holds a withered branch and his plow is idle in the parched earth. On the north side of the pedestal, a man with an empty bucket beseeches heaven for rain to extinguish the flames consuming the roof on which he stands. To his right a woman leads her child to her bath.

Four more uses are depicted on bas-relief panels on each side of the pedestal. They illustrate the use of steam and water power and the benefits of fishing and navigation. It is the last of these, navigation and transportation, that sculptor Harris has chosen for the design on the reverse of the ANA medal. The panel displays a steamboat which is particularly fitting for this city whose settlers arrived by Ohio River, first by keelboat from upstream Pennsylvania, later on steamboats from the east and New Orleans. Because of its waterway location the city became a commercial center, a position enhanced by the construction of two canals, the Whitewater and then the Miami and Erie, that drew inland merchandise to riverfront docks.

Harris's rendition is an adaptation of Kreling's navigation panel. The German had never seen a riverfront in midwestern America and he doubtlessly never dreamed that his sketches would be cast in bronze on the banks of the Ohio. He depicted navigation in the larger sense of ocean-going vessels. Harris has extracted the portions of the panel which have visual relevance to Cincinnati history, omitting symbols that have no application to river commerce.

Not everything on Cincinnati's Fountain is serious. Either Henry Probasco or the Foundry Director, Ferdinand von Miller, realized the need for light relief. Miller and his sons created additional figures to establish that water is also a delight. Four children at the corners of the pedestal are occupied with joyous pursuits. One prepares for ice skating; another listens to the sounds in a seashell; a third obtains delight from a lobster he has caught; the last adorns herself with pearls and gazes at her reflection in the pool below. Four more joyous figures, all boys, surmount the drinking fountains around the basin. One, astride a tortoise, is known affectionately to Cincinnatians as "Turtle Joe." For many years the city's residents drew drinking water from the four fonts—in the case of Turtle Joe, directly from the turtle's mouth.

Convention visitors will find a trip to Fountain Square not only convenient, but almost impossible to avoid. The Skywalk, a second level walkway that transcends streets and traffic reaches from the lobbies of the Convention hotels to the Square and beyond. The Square is particularly attractive at noon on a summer day when thousands of office workers go there for lunch. Orchestras, including the Cincinnati Symphony, play frequently for the luncheon crowds. Over it all, the Genius and her bronzed subjects look as radiant today as they did 109 years ago.

Y. Yul Harris, Sc.

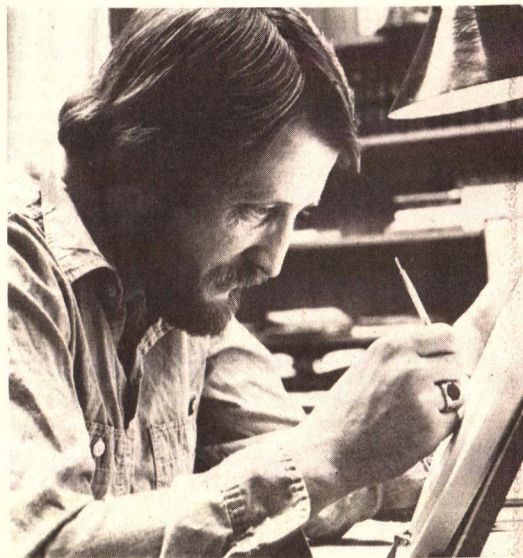

"Why don't you throw that stuff out?" His dad couldn't understand why his young son wanted to keep a bucket full of muddy looking clay. But, even as a young boy, N. Neil Harris found that he was fascinated with creating figures out of the clay he'd found down on the banks of the Cuyahoga in Akron, Ohio, and he kept that clay, reusing it over and over.

It often seems that if we examine our childhood, we can find the roots of our life's work already struggling to surface. So it was with the sculptor of the ANA's 89th Anniversary medal. From drawing and coloring in his spare time to art classes in school, Neil continued to be drawn to the arts until he finally relinquished his earlier fantasies of being an airline pilot or an architect. Encouragement in his pursuits came with various local, state, and national awards sponsored by corporations and civic groups, and the opportunity to free-lance with a local commercial artist.

Art school seemed the natural course to follow, but the money wasn't available, and a semester at Indiana University left Neil bored by the superficial art instruction and indifferent to the required curriculum. Taking a part-time job at Loeb's, Inc., a Lafayette, Indiana department store, he gradually made himself known until he was hired in the advertising department. A move to California found Neil doing a brief stint in the display department of May Company in Redondo Beach, but he soon took a better position with Nortronics, a division of Northrup Aircraft. For almost two years, Neil honed his graphic talents at Northrup, also deepening his interest in photography with extensive darkroom work. After hours, he continued his free-lance work, took art related courses at several junior colleges, and married Selma Taul, a beautiful lady he'd met in the men's department at May Company.

Family illness called Neil, his wife and infant daughter back to Indiana, where he was fortunately able to find a job with the Purdue University School of Veterinary Medicine, in one of the first veterinary school art departments developed in this country. In the eleven years that Neil spent there, he gradually worked up in position and prestige as a technical design artist in photography and art, and the department became one of the highest regarded in the country.

Knowing of Neil's free-lancing activities, a friend who belonged to a local coin club, asked him in 1965 if he would be interested in doing a design for the club's annual convention. Though it only entailed doing a line drawing, Neil's acceptance of the task aroused his curiosity about the art and technique of creating coins and medals. He studied everything he could find on the subject and became a member of the local and then state numismatic group. As a delegate to the 1966 Central States Numismatic Association Convention, Neil saw an exhibit of ANA medals, and became intrigued to learn more about them; it seemed that their history left many questions with no one having catalogued what a complete collection would be comprised of. So it was that Neil began his research which resulted in a series of articles on the ANA medal issues which was published in The Numismatist.

As an officer of the Indiana State Numismatic Association, Neil served as a member and later chairman of the medal committee. His natural instincts led him to design the organization's Bicentennial series of five medals based on George Rogers Clark, and eventually he was called upon to sculpt the obverses for the last four issues. In the midst of this struggling exploration into a new field of art, Neil received a call from the ANA's executive director, Edward C. Rochette, offering him a position as the association's editor. It seems his series of articles had left quite an impression.

He was torn about leaving the work and the people at Purdue that he'd grown to love, but room for advancement had become limited, and the ANA represented a new challenge. Neil finished the Indiana Bicentennial series under the pressures of learning a whole new role as ANA editor, but he could feel the immense potential for creative growth. Leisure time for free-lancing or pursuing his medallic art or even for his family became very limited as The Numismatist and the ANA consumed more and more of his life . . . it was and is, perhaps, a magnificent obsession.

A special request from former colleague John Hutcheson of the Mayo Clinic brought Neil a commission to design and sculpt the 75th Anniversary Medal for the American Medical Library Association in 1976. As the ANA became increasingly aware of their editor's talent in this direction and the convenience of his proximity, he was offered the commission for the 1977 and 1978 Atlanta and Houston convention medals. Neil was thrilled to have such an unexpected conclusion to his long time research into the ANA medal series.

A gnawing feeling of inadequacy and the determination to improve his medallic art and understanding of sculpture led Neil to begin studying in 1979 under local sculptor George Henson. While time hadn't permitted him to accept several commissions he had been offered and he felt it would be unfair for him to do another ANA issue, he longed to test his improved skills. Two factors moved him to submit designs to the Cincinnati committee for consideration for the 1980 convention medal—his admiration for the convention's general chairman Dick Dusterberg, and his fond childhood memories of the Genius of Waters, chosen as the medal's theme. For Neil, a longtime admirer of feminine beauty, the Genius offers a perfect subject—a personified ideal of beauty upon which any beholder would agree.

As hard as it is to keep an ANA medal uncluttered, Neil fought to keep the Cincinnati design simple yet powerful. He feels confident that this is his best effort to date. The sculpture classes have enriched his art. "Whereas in my early pieces," Neil relates, "I would focus too quickly on finalizing small areas of the design, I've since learned to be looser in the preliminary stages, to sketch in clay. Now I approach the clay design as a whole, gradually building up the entire design and then coming back to refine particular sections, an approach which gives me much better control over the relative effect caused by every stroke."

Neil has no grandiose plans for his future in medallic art, but he's full of ideas for pieces he'd like to try and is completing his first sculptures "in the round." "The Numismatist remains my first priority," Neil reminds us, "and is still a source of constant creative challenge. But as long as I have the opportunity, I'll continue to pursue sculpture and medallic art, and if someday I can earn the regard of all those medallic artists I have so long admired, then it will have been well worth it."—P. Famous Carpathia Medal Restruck

In 1912, the firm of Dieges and Clust of New York struck 300 gold medals with blue ribbons for the captain and ship officers of the ship Carpathia that saved the survivors of the wreck of the Titanic. Bronze medals with red ribbons were struck for the crew of the ship. Today, less than ten of these medals are known of.

A special limited restrike edition will be made this year. Only 2,223 medals will be struck. For the 705 survivors of the wreck, 705 gold electroplated medals with blue ribbons will be available at $40 each. The 1,158 who lost their lives will be commemorated with French bronze medals with red ribbons at $25.00 each.

All medals will have a special designation on them and so marked with "THS 1980" (THS representing the Titanic Historical Society). Medals may be ordered for April 15, 1980 delivery from 7 C's Press, Inc., P. O. Box 57, Riverside, CT 06878. All medals will be shipped first class insured via UPS. Overseas orders will be shipped via air mail.

Twelfth Summer Seminar Features New Courses

The American Numismatic Association's 12th Annual Summer Seminar, scheduled for the week of July 13th through 19th, is offering for the first time three new courses in addition to the popular standbys Detection of Counterfeit and Altered Coins, Coin Grading, and Coin Photography. New courses will include All About Coins, A Numismatic Writing and Research Seminar and what may prove to be the most popular of all—the Charles Wolfe Course on Ancient Coins. Total enrollment will be limited to 150 students.

This annual event, held in cooperation with Colorado College, on whose campus the ANA headquarters is situated, attracts numismatists from all over the world. This year there will be participants from England, the Republic of China, Korea, as well as Canada and most of the fifty states. The program includes the participation by the United States Treasury Department with visits scheduled to the United States Mint at Denver and lectures by Mint officials.

Tuition for the week long event has been set at $249 for ANA members and $275 for non-members. There will be a $10 discount for participants who pre-pay in full by June 30. This fee includes, in addition to tuition, lodging and meals at Colorado College and a field trip to the Denver Mint. For those participating in the class All About Coins, the fee covers a field trip to the mining ghost towns of Cripple Creek and Victor. The costs for spouses not attending any class but staying at Colorado College, which include meals, lodgings, and the field trips, will be $25 less. The College will not permit children under eleven to stay in the dormitories nor may they go on the field trips; pets are also not allowed.

Classes offered for 1980 include:

The Detection of Counterfeit and Altered Coins—This standard and very popular course will be limited to 30 students, and instructors will be drawn from the staff of the ANA's certification service. John Hunter, a former ANACS authenticator will also be an instructor, as will Ingrid Smith, now on the ANACS staff and former authenticator for the Deutsche Bundesbank in Munich, West Germany. Mrs. Smith has also instructed a number of counterfeit detection courses for the Organization of International Numismatists (OIN). Classes will include several hours of laboratory work and the use of microscopes for detection purposes.

Coin Grading—Those seeking to understand the fine art of grading will have the benefit of the expertise of Kenneth Bressett, Whitman Publishing Company, author of many guide books on hobby subjects and publisher of the ANA's Official Grading Guide for United States Coins. He will again be assisted by Thomas Delorey, ANACS staff coin grader.

Coin Photography—Due to darkroom limitations this class must be limited to ten students. Headed by Ed Fleischmann, one of the best known coin photographers in the United States and a lead authenticator on the ANACS staff, instruction will include the use of ANA darkroom facilities and the learning of many "tricks of the trade."

The Charles Wolfe Course on Ancient Coins—Although not a new subject, this course on ancients will be a first time offering by the dean of ancient coin dealers. Prior courses have been offered by leading dealers who at one time or another were protégés of Charles Wolfe, but, for the first time, the association has been fortunate in securing the topmost expert in the country to teach this course. Both beginning and intermediate levels will be offered. Students will have the opportunity of viewing several rare specimens in the association's collection.

All About Coins—This course will be an extension of last year's course, The History of Coin Collecting in America, and again conducted by Q. David Bow-ers, a member of the ANA board of governors, former president of the Professional Numismatists Guild, leading author, and one of the most successful coin dealers in the U.S. Bowers will share with students the intriguing history of coin collecting and the many great stories that coins relate. Students in his class will also have the opportunity of visiting Cripple Creek and Victor. That field trip will include lunch in the historic Imperial Hotel at Cripple Creek.

Numismatic Writing and Research—In conjunction with the Numismatic Literary Guild, Ed Rochette, the ANA's executive vice president, will take time out from his busy work schedule to share his expertise as a former numismatic editor and author of over 700 articles relating to coins and paper currency. His class will offer tips on numismatic research, the use of the ANA library facilities, the editing, publishing and sale of numismatic articles. His class will be afforded a field trip through the editorial rooms of a newspaper and the new use of computer word processing for writing articles and columns.

Applications are obtainable now from headquarters for the seminar. A $25 deposit must accompany each application for each person attending the seminar in order to insure enrollment in a course and to make the necessary reservations. Address correspondence to: ANA Summer Seminar, P.O. Box 2366, Colorado Springs, CO 80901.

A HISTORY OF NEBRASKA BANKING AND PAPER MONEY, by Gerome Walton. 1978. 674 pp. Illus. Pub. by and available from the author, P.O. Box 9833, Colorado Springs, CO 80932, and from The Centinal, P.O. Box 80728, Lincoln NE 68501. Paper cover, $48.50. Hard cover, $74.50.

The increased popularity of paper money in recent years has resulted in publication of many new books on the subject, most of which treat individual areas such as geographic, era and type. Here is one that needs no qualification aside from the title—it covers the subject matter in its entirety from territorial days to recent times, from scrip to obsolete bank notes to U.S. nationals.

Author Walton left no stone unturned in his nearly ten years of research. Completeness and accuracy became driving forces; each discovery seemed to pose new questions and problems. But they were met and solved, with the result that the book contains a vast amount of pertinent information. Examples: data, including photos of notes, on the known banks and organizations (some two dozen) that issued obsolete notes; photos of at least one note of 348 of the 349 national banks that issued notes; number of national bank notes issued by denomination and type; a list of cashiers' and presidents' signatures on national bank notes (some 1800 names).

Perhaps Walton's outstanding single accomplishment was obtaining photographs of the sheets of proof Nebraska national bank notes, 1875 through 1902, that were transferred in a few years ago from the Bureau of Engraving and Printing to the Smithsonian Institution. Of the large size national notes illustrated, more than 100 are not known to collectors and could not have been pictured without the Smithsonian sheets.

This book will serve many persons in addition to paper money collectors—banking history students, Nebraska history buffs, and as a target of excellence for other compilers to shoot at.—GS

NOTES AND QUERIES

Bergen Named to Spearhead ANA Building Fund Drive

ANA President George D. Hatie has called upon former prexy Herbert M. Bergen to head the funding drive to raise one million dollars for an expansion program expected to double the size of the present headquarters facilities on the campus of Colorado College in Colorado Springs. Preliminary plans of the new building addition were first revealed at the 88th anniversary convention in St. Louis, Missouri last August.

Although the fund drive has yet to get underway officially, over $111,000 has been received at ANA headquarters toward the ultimate goal of one million dollars. Costs of the addition are expected to reach $750,000, plus additional expenses of around $50,000 for furnishings. The additional goal of $200,000 has been planned to take into consideration rising costs and inflation. The additional sum will also be used toward endowing services for the new facilities.

Prime need for expanded facilities is for the ever growing authentication service. While additional employees are needed, there is no room to put them. Now, with grading services added to which the specimen was struck, the date, metal, and other essential details. The medal's exact size can be determined from the accompanying illustration. —R.O.

Note: The ANA Library has the original of this fine publication in its Rare Book collection; however, the reprint will be placed in the circulating collection and may be borrowed by members. This copy was generously donated by Dr. Daniel W. Schwartz in memory of his father, Max Schwartz.

ANACS responsibilities, the work area has overflowed into the basement of the current building. Added space is particularly needed by the library, as well. The world's largest circulating numismatic library is growing even larger! The number of books and periodicals has nearly doubled during the past decade. The expanded facilities will allow the headquarters staff to better serve the membership, offer more programs and services and thus work to further increase the membership.

Chairman Bergen has asked a number of prominent numismatists to serve on this committee with him including Betty Higby, ANA Director of Grants and Endowments, accepts a $1000 check toward the building fund from Albert Wohlers, administrator for the ANA's insurance plans.

William O. Wisslead and Ralph A. Mitchell to assist him directly. Bergen has asked another former ANA president, John Jay Pittman, to assume the specific responsibility of organizing the fund drive through clubs and regional organizations. Other regional chairmen include J. Douglas Ferguson, Canada; Clyde Hubbard, Mexico; Ray Byrne, Florida; James L. Halperin, New England; and Paul Koppenhaver, professional numismatists. Mr. Bergen has also asked the assistance of Amon G. Carter, Jr., and Eric P. Newman. William C. Henderson, ANA treasurer has agreed to serve as treasurer of the fund raising committee. Mrs. Betty Higby, ANA director of grants and endowments, will coordinate the fund raising efforts through a private funding foundation to match the monies raised through the ANA membership. Abe Kosoff and Chester L. Krause were previously named by the president to head a building committee which is separate from the funding drive headed by former president Bergen.

Members are reminded that ANA is recognized by the Internal Revenue Service as a non-profit educational organization and donations to ANA are recognized for maximum tax deductions. Donors will receive an official receipt from headquarters which may be used for income tax purposes.

Karen Worth Receives J. Sanford Saltus Award

Since the inception of the American Numismatic Society's J. Sanford Saltus award in 1913, only 30 people have been honored with receiving it. On January 12, Karen Worth, a New York sculptor and 1977 recipient of the ANA's Numismatic Art Award, joined the list of sculptors receiving the ANS award for excellence and distinguished achievement in the art of medallic sculpture.

Mr. Joseph Kiselewski, a former recipient of the award, presented Mrs. Worth with the honor commenting on her remarkable record of sculpturing approximately 350 medals since she began her career in 1963. A few highlights of her work include 120 medals for the Judaic Heritage Society, several medals honoring the space program, a bicentennial medal depicting 37 presidents on the obverse and most recently, a medal commemorating Anne Frank.

In her acceptance speech, Mrs. Worth conveyed her feelings on her work. "Through this medium, I am taking part in history and creating a chronicle of our time. And because our time is troubled, I try to make my world the kind I can live in. I enjoy sharing my world with you."

She also set up a special exhibit for the American Numismatic Society entitled, "The Medallic Art of Karen Worth." The display held many samples of her work and included with each a note on what inspired the art, and what she felt she as the sculptor had brought to the subject, to the one who commissioned the art, and to what she feels is the most important source, the collector.

Smithsonian Granted Ownership Chase Manhattan Bank Collection

In a surprise announcement, the Chase Manhattan Bank has officially transferred ownership of its extensive currency collection to the Smithsonian Institution. The gift came less than two years after the bank presented its Chase Manhattan Money Collection to the Smithsonian under a special loan/gift agreement which was to last for up to 10 years.

Highlights from the Chase Manhattan Bank Money Collection are currently exhibited at the National Museum of History and Technology where the collection is housed under the supervision of curators Vladimir and Elvira Clain-Stefanelli. It is considered one of the largest currency collections in the country, with over 25,000 examples, including rare primitive and ancient forms of money. The range is from 2,500 year old Egyptian gold ring money to ancient Greek and Roman coins to modern American and European coins and paper currencies.

With the addition of the new collection, the Smithsonian's already world-famous numismatic holdings will be further strengthened, particularly in the area of primitive currency, American colonial paper currencies and early American cheques.

Essex Numismatics Enlarges Staff

James J. Jelinski, president of Essex Numismatics, Inc., has announced the addition of Charles Surasky to the staff of the Greenwich, Conn. rare coin company. Surasky will hold the position of Administrative Executive and will work for improved communication between Essex Numismatics and their clients.

A collector since he was seven, Surasky served the ANA as a Young Numismatist Representative for Connecticut and was one of the first administrators for the ANA's Young Numismatist Correspondence Course. In addition, he has written many articles for prospective YN's. His most recent article, Talk About Coin Collecting, was published by the Peanut Press, an educational newspaper distributed to 60,000 students in the Dayton, Ohio elementary school system.

Surasky joined Paramount International Coin Corporation in Dayton, Ohio following graduation from the University of Connecticut and eventually became editor-in-chief of the Paramount Journal. From Ohio he moved to Minneapolis to join Calhoun's Collector Societies, and now has moved on to Essex Numismatics.

Essex Numismatics, Inc. recently relocated from Portsmouth, N.H. to Greenwich. Collectors may contact the firm by writing Essex Numismatics, Inc., 2 Greenwich Plaza, Greenwich, CT 06830 or by calling (203) 622-0677.

Nominate Your Outstanding Club Representative

Throughout the United States many dedicated coin club members work particularly hard serving as their club's representative with the ANA and at various functions. In 1966 the ANA decided that some recognition should be given to these individuals who give additional time to promoting numismatics, and so they established the Outstanding Club Representative award.

Nominations for this award are now being accepted, and every club who has been made aware in the past year of their club representative's special influence and effort in club activities should show their gratitude and support for this individual by nominating him or her Outstanding Club Representative. Activities you should look for which will be considered in the judges' choice are:

- What contributions has he or she made to improve the image of numismatics?
- How has he or she promoted the American Numismatic Association?
- Has this club representative encouraged participation by the club in National Coin Week?
- Has the person assisted in obtaining desirable new members?
- Has he or she encouraged the use of educational material at club meetings?

- Has he or she promoted the use of educational award certificates?

- Has he or she been active in local regional and national committee work?

Medal of Protest Raps Moscow Games

On the eve of the Russian invasion of Afghanistan, a medal protesting the selection of Moscow for the 1980 Olympic Games was issued by History In Metal, Inc. of New York.

The medal shows a grim-faced athlete leapfrogging over Olympic rings whose unity is broken by the Soviet sickle in the form of a question mark. The message to Moscow is underlined in the words of Albert Einstein which appear alongside a stylized Olympic torch on the reverse of the medal, "All that is valuable in human society depends upon the opportunity for development accorded to the individual."

Robert Weber, president of History In Metal, Inc., and designer of the medal, explained the significance of the Medal of Protest: "A year ago, a small prophetic group, recalling the 1936 Olympics, felt that the International Olympic Committee violated its own rules in convening the Olympics in a country which discriminates against its own citizens for racial, religious, or political reasons. Today, a majority of the American people feel that American athletes and American money should not be used to give a veneer of respectability to an image so stained by recent and current events."

The Medal of Protest, sculpted by Harry Shmilovich, and struck by the World-Wide Mint in Minneapolis, is issued in three limited editions: in solid bronze at $25 each, in .999 silver plate at $45 each, and in 24 karat gold electroplate at $75 each. Each medal, 2 inches in diameter, is hallmarked and numbered and is presented with a display easel. With each medal comes a complimentary red, white, and blue button with the legend "Olympics, Yes! Moscow, No!"

Further information is available from Medal of Protest, P.O. Box 2022, New York, NY 10017.

UNITED STATES—GSA Revises Sale Prices of Carson City Silver Dollars

Skyrocketing silver prices forced the General Services Administration to revise the price of the nearly one million 90% silver Carson City dollars that went on public sale in early February. Roy Markon, Commissioner of the General Services Administration's Federal Property Resources Service, said the agency had to revise previously announced prices which ranged from $20 to $42 per coin depending upon mint year and condition.

"We're in the most volatile precious metals market of recent record with silver prices taking unprecedented leaps almost daily. When we announced our original prices on Nov. 13, 1979, silver was selling for $16.16 a troy ounce. In less than two months that price had more than doubled," Markon said.

Each silver dollar contains .7725 troy ounces of silver. When the bullion price of silver is $35 per troy ounce, the value of the silver in each coin is about $27. Markon stated that the sale of the coins at a price less than its bullion value at the time of the sale would have been irresponsible.

The sale, which will end April 8, 1980, features three categories of the historic "Cartwheels": 1883-CC (195,745) at $65 each; 1884-CC (428,152) at $60 each; and Mixed Years CC, 1878-1885 and 1889-1893 (299,390) at $45 each.

Potential buyers should watch for advertisements containing order forms which are appearing in some 50 daily newspapers, including the nationally available Wall Street Journal and the New York Times. Another source for order forms are the Federal Information Centers which are located in 38 metropolitan areas and can be reached by toll-free lines from 47 other cities nationwide. Federal Information Centers are listed under "U.S. Government" in the white pages of the telephone directory.

Markon cautioned all prospective buyers to read the advertisements in their papers and order forms carefully, particularly the sections on "How to Order" and the "Terms and Conditions of Sale." Customers should fill out the order form properly, being sure to make mathematical calculations accurately and to enclose a check or money order for the correct amount. "Orders not complying with the instructions will have to be returned," Markon advised, "possibly spoiling a person's chance of receiving any coins in the sale."

Corrosion Develops with Vinyl Flips

I am greatly concerned about long term storage of coins in vinyl flips. I, as well as a close friend, have noticed green corrosion developing on copper, copper-nickel, brass, and other base metal coins stored in these flips. We both use quality flips.

Corrosion starts to appear after 2 years and is most evident after 2 years as a green circle on flip. After 10 years, corrosion is well into central surface of coin. Base-metal coins within a few years lose their brilliance.

For coins stored in mylar, cardboard holders I have never had a problem.

I get no sympathy from dealers in this matter. I believe collectors should know about the problem.

Numbered Seats and 4-Year Terms Questioned

I genuinely believe that numbered seats and 4-year terms for Governors are not the answer. Their disadvantages, for me, outweigh their advantages, as I indicated on my ballot. For me, one of the most serious objections is that with numbered seats in an election, I must vote for candidates for one seat, neither of whom I really care to see in office (so a vote is for the LEAST objectionable, lest a worse one be elected...), whereas in the race for another seat, it is a matter of voting for one OR another when I think BOTH ought to be on the Board. This makes me unwilling to vote at all, and who gets in? The power-mad. Which leads to the other objection: if a Governor can succeed himself, after EITHER a 2-year or a 4-year term, staggered or not, he may spend more time electioneering than working for ANA, as in the federal government. With a 4-year term we may have to endure a smalltime Nixon—short of calling a by-election to remove him, and would not he as a Governor, have power to block any such by-election? Two-year terms would be easier to endure in that case.

Back when ANA was originally created, it was not a multi-million dollar corporation, and its rules reflected the fact that serving as an elected or appointed official was a way of helping out to do what everyone wanted done anyway. Now it is too big for that, and the amount of power, ego-tripping, and prerequisites coming to any elected officials has become enough to attract the kind of politicians who get their kicks out of being big frogs in any size pond; politicians who are more interested in power than in seeing the organization run smoothly without internal squabbles. I would vastly prefer seeing fewer and fewer incentives to Governorship; the bigger the incentives, the worse the turkeys going after them. You may or may not realize that one reason I have NOT tried to take part in internal politics in ANS, ANA, EAC, NLG, specialized groups like churches or astrological federations or the Society for Creative Anachronism, etc., over the years, is that internal politics is divisive, and has a way of attracting such turkeys who take over and make the groups their own arenas, to the detriment of all other members. I cannot waste my valuable time and effort in such party-line battles. More importantly, perhaps, I fear that doing so would make me into one of the turkeys. "Power corrupts; absolute power corrupts absolutely," as Lord Acton said almost 150 years ago, is as true now as it was then. Neither then, do I want to vote for anything that would make it easier for the turkeys, or increase their tenure.

Appointed Officers' and Staff Names Omitted

Association bylaws require publication of each application but not necessarily the applicant's mailing address. However, if the option to omit the street or box number was not exercised on the application form, it has been published herein. Such applicants should realize that numerous mailings will follow from various dealers and other numismatic organizations that scan the monthly publication of applicants.

The Association cannot prevent such use of your address now and in the future. However, the ANA has not and will not release any applicants' or members' addresses at any time or for any purpose beyond this initial publication. Notices of changes of addresses of members are never published or released from headquarters.

Expert Appraisals.

The first step in any rare coin sale is an expert appraisal. New England Rare Coin Galleries' numismatists have in-depth knowledge in all areas of numismatics, including U.S. coins, ancient coins, world coins and rare U.S. currency. We will provide accurate market appraisals of all your materials, so that you can judge just how profitable your rare coin sale could be. For major collections, we will even travel to your bank, vault or home to ensure the privacy and security of your holdings.

Public Auction.

If our numismatists determine that your coins might bring the highest prices at public auction, we will help you place them in a New England Rare Coin Auctions sale. New England Rare Coin Auctions, a division of New England Rare Coin Galleries, is an internationally influential auction firm that holds four major auctions annually. Our reputation has prompted several prestigious numismatic organizations to ask us to conduct auctions for them — including the American Numismatic Association, the Metropolitan New York Numismatic Association and the Florida United Numismatists. In 1979, our A.N.A. auction broke the world's record for the highest-grossing numismatic sale ever conducted by a single auction firm: over $4.1 million. And today, our avid following of enthusiastic bidders allows us to consistently realize record prices for collectors.

"A complete numismatic library in one volume"

The Author

The Book

THE HISTORY OF UNITED STATES COINAGE as illustrated by the Garrett Collection by Q. David Bowers

Since its initial publication last autumn the book The History of United States Coinage has garnered dozens of favorable reviews. Coin World, in a front-page story, called it a "singular boon to the hobby, a monumental, magnificently illustrated opus" (among other glowing comments) and noted that it was "spellbinding" reading. The Numismatic Literary Guild Newsletter called it "one of the most unique numismatic books ever to appear in our hobby . . . The term 'quality' comes to mind wherever this publication will be viewed . . . The writing is interesting, easy to absorb, and, above all, informative." The Washington Star noted that "It is a survey not only of American Coinage but of American numismatics as well, and the people involved are as interesting as the coins they were concerned with." Numismatic News, The New York Times, and other leading publications were likewise complimentary.

Last autumn we printed 5000 copies of the book. It was our thinking that the book, a rather expensive volume, would sell steadily, but certainly not quickly, and that 5000 copies would give us a stock for several years to come. We were wrong. Far wrong. It turned out that less than three months later we were completely sold out! A funny thing happened. Often a collector or dealer would order a copy, see and read it, and then order more. One Alexandria, Virginia reader ordered 15 additional copies, a well-known Louisville, Kentucky numismatist ordered 6 additional copies, a well-known Louisville, Kentucky numismatist ordered 6 additional copies, and many ordered one, two, or three extras. We've published quite a few numismatic books over the years, and we never have seen such enthusiasm and demand!

What is the book about, and why has it caused all of this comment? First, here are some physical specifications: The volume is a large 8½ x 11" in size, is hardbound with a grained leatherette cover with gold embossed lettering and with an embossed illustration of the 1787 Brasher doubloon on the cover. Inside are 572 pages, including 40 full-color photographic plates and hundreds of black-and-white illustrations. In full color are illustrated hundreds of American numismatic classics—two different 1787 Brasher doubloons, the legendary 1804 silver dollar, 1793 cents and half cents, the remarkable issues of the early Philadelphia Mint in 1792, Proof double eagles, patterns, medals, tokens . . . and many more.

Second, the text is written in an informative, easy-to-read and quite interesting manner. Here is a book which one reader glowingly described as "a complete numismatic library in one volume" and which another said is "like taking a university course in numismatics from an interesting professor." You will read about how coin collecting started if America and activities during the 19th century . . . the 20th century market and how it developed, with much unpublished correspondence and information concerning the "greats" in the business—the Chapman brothers, B. Max Mehl, Ed. Frossard, Lyman H. Low, Wayte Raymond, J.W. Scott, Harold P. Newlin, and many more. You will read how the Garrett family—T. Harrison Garrett and his two sons, Robert and John Work—started in 1865 and continued until the early 1940's building the fabulous Garrett Collection. For example, you will read hitherto unpublished correspondence from B. Max Mehl in which he offers John Work Garrett first pick of rarities by private sale from the W.F. Dunham Collection (which Mehl auctioned in 1941).

You will read step-by-step about the development of United States and early American coinage . . . coins of colonial Massachusetts, copper coins of the states, pieces pertaining to George Washington, early copper coins, the silver and gold coinage of the 18th and 19th centuries, formation of the the United States Mint, the branch mints, and many more things. A special chapter, "Survey of United States Coinage," discusses in detail each denomination and type . . . from early large cents to Lincoln cents to Morgan dollars to commemoratives. The California Gold Rush forms another chapter, and territorial gold coins of Colorado, California, Georgia, and other locations have their own special sections in the book as well. Indian peace medals, Hard Times Tokens, and other numismatic Americana are also discussed in detail.

Knowledge is the key to success in any field. We believe that in this one volume you will find more information about United States coins than is available from any other single source. In fact, we guarantee it!

A new printing of just 3,500 copies is in the works. We already have orders for many of these on hand, so we expect sales to be brisk. If you order now we will mail your copy postpaid immediately upon publication, anticipated to be in March. Copies are $37.00 postpaid each (or $39.22, including tax, to California addresses). There is no need to be skeptical about the book. Not one of the readers of the first 5000 copies, to our knowledge, was less than 100% pleased. Our remarkable guarantee is given below:

GUARANTEE OF SATISFACTION

If after receiving your book you are not 100% delighted with every aspect of it, and if you do not find it completely fulfills our description of it as well as the reports you've read in reviews of it, you can return your copy within 30 days for a full and immediate cash refund. No explanation is necessary.

Here is a remarkable book. One which is useful and which will provide you with a whole "LIBRARY" OF VALUABLE KNOWLEDGE. Whether you are a collector, investor, or dealer, this is a "must" for you!

Enclosed is my payment of $_____.		NU-004002

to gold sellers

If there's one basic fact of numismatic life that's as sure as snow in Alaska, it's that William Youngerman wants to buy gold. We want to buy your common gold, we want to buy your rare gold, we want your U.S. and your foreign.

Sure, selling your numismatic material can be frustrating. We've seen collectors, time and again, shopping around like puppies at a flower show and end up doing more fretting and stewing than anything else. Now, we don't mind competition, but just remember that William Youngerman is a name that has meant gold since 1967. At any given time, we have in stock many of the true rarities. The only way to get material such as this is to pay through the nose.

We invite you to shop your U.S. or foreign gold for free appraisal and cash offer. We include the full cost of forwarding your coins in our offer. Although it doesn't happen often, if we do not come to an agreement, we will return your coins fully insured and postpaid, with our check for all your shipping and cost. Send your material fully insured, including invoice listing coins, your full address and telephone number. If you prefer, we will fly to buy large estates or collections. Call today and make an appointment to fit your schedule.

Our references include: Professional Numismatists Guild; American Numismatic Association; Better Business Bureau.

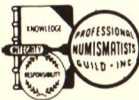

What more can we say. Give us a try. You'll be glad you did!

Robert L. Hughes Enterprises personnel are members of many numismatic organizations and have the experience and expertise to buy your coins.

Of course, we will travel to see you if the size of the collection warrants it!

If you don't have a collection to sell but know of someone who does, call us with the referral. We would be pleased to pay a finder's fee on consummated transactions.

You may call us in confidence at (213) 278-4950 (collect) or toll-free (outside California) at (800) 421-0588. Please ask for Bob Hughes, president, or Gary Gordon, executive vice-president.

Mintmaster — Expandable and centrally secured

Basic Unit:

The basic kit comprises simple yet practical elements which allow for further expansion: the base with tray, two frames with trays and a lid. These precisely-fitting parts join to form a unit of three trays, each pulling out to reveal 50 mm x 50 mm compartments. These are delivered fully assembled, with fitted lock and key. Dimensions: 34.5 cm wide, 24 cm deep, 7 cm high.

As collections grow, the Mintmaster grows with them
The Mintmaster is constructed to save storage space. A complete unit of 30 trays is only 35cm high. An extra attraction to collectors is the facility of building the Mintmaster into a bookcase, as a "case-within-a-case". The anchorage and central-locking system offer protection against theft, while at the same time being readily accessible when you want to examine or display your collection.

The Uncommon Market
For Numismatists The World Over

WELCOMES YOUR INQUIRIES

We take pride in the fact that we have one of the largest and most select inventories of gold and silver — U.S. and foreign numismatic coins — in America.

BUY AND SELL COINS AND CURRENCY

We buy and sell any and all numismatic material. MTB is the largest firm on the East Coast dealing in all forms of coinage from bullion to numismatic rarities. Some firms will buy a part of your collection; we will buy it all, world coins and paper money included. Our numismatic division has long been recognized as a leader in quality coinage and as such we are in constant need of new material. If you are looking to buy or sell, it would be wise to check with us first as we are recognized as "THE DEALER'S DEALER."

No collection is too large, so why sell it for less? We will pay you immediately and remove the guesswork as to the price your collection will bring. If the size of your collection warrants it, we will travel to see the material. Remember, when buying or selling, think

TODAY? or EVERY DAY?
YOU DON'T EVEN HAVE TO PHONE!
YOUR LITTLE CALCULATOR WILL TELL YOU QUICKLY AND EASILY!

Just follow our formula:

BULLION-TYPE GOLD COINS UNCIRCULATED

1 TROY OZ. GOLD

KRUGGERAND CANADA MAPLE LEAF FRANKLIN MINT

Our prices are based on the N.Y. spot price of gold on the day we receive your check.

1 pc. N.Y. Spot Price per oz. + 9%
5 pcs. N.Y. Spot Price per oz. + 8.5%
10 pcs. 10x N.Y. Spot Price per oz. + 8%

To determine our prices on the other gold coins listed below, use the gold content of the coin in Troy ounces, and multiply by the sell price of the 1 oz. gold pieces (Kruggerand, Canada Maple Leaf or Franklin Mint). EXAMPLE: If the Kruggerand is $600, the Mexico 50 Pesos would be $600 times 1.2057, or $723.42; the Sovereign: $600 times .2354, or $141.24. Similarly, this also applies to the quantity discounts.

The Professional Numismatists Guild is the leading organization in the United States which restricts its membership to dealers who possess and demonstrate these three essential qualifications: KNOWLEDGE of the subject arising from extensive experience; RESPONSIBILITY to sell only fully authenticated and accurately described items of numismatic value; and INTEGRITY in assuring the buyer of a safe, honest, and mutually satisfying transaction.

Buying Currency

Prices for top quality United States Currency over the past year have increased drastically; many notes have doubled, even tripled, in value over the past 12 months. This has come about by the old law of Supply and Demand. With the rash of new collectors in this field, the demand has outweighed the supply three-fold. The very popular Educational set has gone over the $10,000 level, and the once-plentiful 1923 $1 Silver Certificate is fast approaching the $100 level. To satisfy our customers' wants, we need to buy and will pay much higher prices than ever before.

No, we do not publish an advertised buy price because we feel the market is much too volatile. We believe in paying TOP MARKET PRICES for Gem quality notes (much higher than some of the advertised buy prices). That's a fair deal, and a good one!

We are also in great need of quality circulated material and do not restrict our buying to Choice and Gem notes. So, if you are thinking of selling, prices have never been higher. Or, if you have a specific note or notes that you have been looking for, try us. Either way, feel free to drop us a line or give us a call to discuss your needs with us—we look forward to talking with each and every one of you!

WE NEED YOUR EARLY TYPE COINS

The Douglas Weaver buying philosophy can be summed up in one simple rule that we always try to follow:

We would rather pay "too much" for nice, problem free coins than to accumulate an inventory of potential bargains that we need to apologize for.

When we attend major auctions, coin shows, or travel to purchase collections, we do so fully prepared to exceed every other offer in order to come away with the coins we need.

Presently we have need to purchase a varied selection of early United States type coins (1793-1807), to fill want lists and to balance our regular inventory.

It is our contention that when buying early type, each coin must be carefully judged on its own merits and not lumped into general categories of value and condition. We also maintain that much of the current pricing information that is available should be considered as only a very general guide. We are fully prepared to pay "whatever it takes" to obtain nice coins.

If you have something nice to sell in early type please give us an opportunity to meet your price or make an offer. We're confident that you will like our straight-forward, no-nonsense way of doing business.

SERVICE

At M.B. SIMONS & ASSOCIATES, LTD., we know that more than fourteen solid years in the rare coin business means something. To us, it means that we will be here for many more years. To you, it should mean that we rank among America's most firmly established numismatic companies. We have no interest in making one-shot deals with customers—in this business, a fast buck is no guarantee of future transactions. Our primary interest is to develop permanent business relationships and friendships with all of our clients. Towards this end, we have below listed some of the many services we offer. Although most of these services are not unique to our firm, we pride ourselves in standing behind each and every commitment we make. INTEGRITY . . . unfortunately, almost an R7 in the coin business. We are Life Members of the American Numismatic Association #592 members of the Professional Numismatists Guild (since 1969), American Numismatic Society (since 1966), as well as all major state and regional numismatic organizations. We endeavor to treat all of our customers in an honest and forthright manner.

GRADING . . . proper grading is a science—for in order to achieve proficiency in its implementation, one must first study relevant literature. More importantly, however, one must study and compare the very coins in question. This is the experience we have; after having examined and graded vast numbers of coins in every series from half cents to fifty-dollar slugs, our grading has become standardized rather than subjective. We use the accepted Sheldon quantitative scale along with the more common adjectival descriptions (mentioning any and all defects, toning and striking characteristics, etc.) for the utmost in precision and clarity. Our descriptions are devised to provide you with an accurate mental picture. M.B. Simons & Associates, Ltd. was among the first to offer a GRADING GUARANTEE and we have always unconditionally guaranteed the authenticity of our merchandise!

BUYING . . . we are constantly in need of better quality and rare United States coins of all denominations and series. To meet this need, we travel extensively throughout the country expressly for the purpose of searching out those elusive coins our customers have come to expect from us. We log well over 100,000 miles per year attending all major shows and auctions, buying and appraising estates and collections of all kinds so that we may offer you the best values and the highest quality in U.S. coins. If you have better U.S. coins - it will pay you to contact us!

SELLING . . . we regularly issue extensively illustrated high quality Catalogs and Fixed Price Lists. Our advertisements may be found in any of the major numismatic periodicals. If you are actively engaged in collecting and/or investing in U.S. coins - you should be on our mailing list.

INVESTMENT COUNSELING . . . we firmly believe that an orderly and proper investment in quality numismatic material affords an unequaled medium for long term capital gain. We spend hours carefully researching, studying trends and past performances in order to become more adept in our recommendations to clients. We want you to be convinced that your hard-earned money is going into a stable, worthwhile and profitable investment. We employ a certified public accountant who will be happy to answer your questions pertaining to numismatic investment of private funds, Corporate Pension Plans, Keogh Plans or Estate Planning.

WANT LISTS . . . we take your Want Lists seriously. As former collectors, we know that it isn't always easy to locate the right coins. We are constantly in touch with other major dealers via telephone, in person at coin shows, and through the FACTS Teletype Network. If the coin is available somewhere, we can usually acquire it for you - and, at a fair price!

AUCTION COMMISSIONS . . . we attend virtually all major auction sales held in the United States (well over two dozen in this past year alone). We will be happy to examine, properly grade, evaluate, and determine a bidding limit for any coins that may interest you. If you so desire, we will then bid on (from the actual auction floor) those lots in which you have expressed interest. In this way you may participate in the auction sale as if you were there in person. You are provided with a prior and accurate evaluation of the coin itself, its value and its suitability for your collection or portfolio. Our fee is a nominal five percent (5%), which is negotiable on larger purchases. You pay NO commission unless your bid is successful. It certainly beats taking pot luck with a mail bid.

We hope to have the opportunity of serving you in the near future. We are as close as your telephone or mailbox. Visitors are welcome at our suburban Philadelphia offices; however, an appointment is suggested.

At last AN ALBUM THAT REALLY DISPLAYS AND PROTECTS YOUR VALUABLE COIN COLLECTION

For years coin collectors have had to settle for storage and display albums that were far from ideal. Many albums failed to protect the coins adequately from tarnish, hid the reverse sides of the coins, did not allow for duplication of coins in a series and/or made it difficult to view the edges.

Some of them contained spaces for coins which were so rare that "holes" were left unfilled in the albums.

Until now no album has met the needs of the discriminating collector. But the "Flip-A-Coin" Album solves coin collectors' problems like none other before it.

- 1) Each coin is protected from dust, moisture and fingerprints by its own plastic show-case.
- 2) Each coin can be removed and reinserted at any other location in the album, so there is no need for an empty "hole" on any page. They can be arranged according to type, date, errors, or in any desired grouping.
- 3) The edges can be plainly viewed without removing the coin.
- 4) The coin can be pivoted so as to show both obverse and reverse surfaces without turning the page or inverting the album.
- 5) Pages can be added and security maintained because of the screw post binder mechanism.
- 6) The cover, tastefully colored and designed, attractively displays all your coins. There is even a transparent vinyl pocket that holds information.

Basically, the album consists of durable plastic leaves, each with eight holes fitting silver dollars. The hole size and number vary with the denomination of coin from page to page.

The coin is contained within its own plastic show-case that can be sealed from dust and fingerprints. This holder is held in the album by a sturdy nylon pin assembly within the page.

The pins are normally locked but may be released so that the coin can be flipped over for inspection or removed from the album. Until pressure is exerted upon spring action of the pin, the coin is held firmly in the album with no possibility of falling out.

The pages are made of high impact plastic with hinges held securely within the plastic sheets to allow the pages to lie flat for inspection. The vinyl cover is of the screw post type so that each page can be removed or new pages added.

The coins are identified by peel-off stickers which are placed in recessed date slots below the openings. Thus, the collector can place his coins in the album in any way he wishes and still maintain proper identification.

SALES ON COMMISSION

CONSIGN YOUR COINS TO SEABY
AND PAY ONLY 15% COMMISSION ON THE SELLING PRICE.

Seaby is a household name in the coin and medal business. Seaby's Coin & Medal Bulletin has a wider circulation than almost any other numismatic list or auction catalogue. Although our business is mainly buying and selling coins and medals outright, collectors and dealers may be interested in selling individual items or collections through Seaby on commission at 15%. The 15% covers:

- (1) Offering your items to our extensive clientele through our want lists.
- (2) Expert listing in the Coin & Medal Bulletin by one of our 18 specialist numismatists.
- (3) Full insurance coverage.

Clients are asked to consign items to us for a minimum of three months at a minimum of £15 per item. Items over £250 will be illustrated free but will incur a charge of £7.50 if the vendor wishes an item returned. Items under £250 will be illustrated, if requested, at a fee of £7.50.

We will give advice on the pricing of material. In the interest of our retail clients, we reserve the right to refuse items which we feel to be over-valued by the vendor.

If you have never seen our Coin & Medal Bulletin, write for a complimentary copy.

Feel free to write if you have any questions to:

The one and only A.N.A. 1980.

A one and only opportunity to realize the greatest prices ever for your rare coins.

The one and only A.N.A. 1980.

Each year, the coin world anxiously awaits the A.N.A. auction sale. It's the most prestigious coin auction in the world, and it happens only once a year.

The A.N.A. auction creates an excitement all its own, with floor bidding at a fast, fevered pace. Indeed, this is the auction that creates numismatic history.

And this year's exciting week-long event promises to be the biggest auction ever. A.N.A. 1980. Thousands of coins are expected to change hands at all-time high prices.

The one and only auction that can draw over 15,000 potential buyers.

Because it is the highlight of the annual A.N.A. convention, the A.N.A. auction enjoys the highest attendance of any other auction. The A.N.A. possesses a prestige that lures thousands of collectors and dealers from all over the world in search of the choicest coins. Some of the rarest and most precious coins are sold only through the A.N.A. Every kind of coin from every part of the world lures thousands of buyers to the A.N.A. If you have coins to sell, there's no time as advantageous to you as A.N.A. 1980.

The one and only auction with an exclusive, loyal buying audience.

Because the A.N.A. auction is probably the greatest single event on the 1980 numismatic calendar, it will attract earnest, sincere collectors and dealers. Many bidders buy from this auction exclusively. And for many dealers, A.N.A. 1980 will be the only auction they will attend all year. It is these dedicated numismatists who will view every coin auctioned — including yours. That's the selling power of the A.N.A.

The one and only auction that will market your coins to the fullest.

Steve Ivy Numismatic Auctions will organize and manage this year's auction. We are preparing the most complete A.N.A. auction marketing program ever to give consignors the very best chance to realize the highest possible prices for their coins. For instance, many coins will be featured in a beautiful, full-color catalog, the best organized and most comprehensive showpiece ever published for the A.N.A. This catalog will be viewed and studied by all potential bidders.

Because of the great prestige of this A.N.A. auction, your coins will benefit from a wide range of highly respected national news media publicity as well.

The one and only auction that promises the best prices of the year.

This auction, particularly during this year of unprecedented high selling prices, will capture the attention of the numismatic world. No other auction during the year can claim the same prestige and reputation to draw as many bidders as the A.N.A.

Without question, the A.N.A. 1980 auction presents the finest liquidation potential available to coin consignors today.

This is also the only auction of the year that directly supports the A.N.A. A small percentage of all sales goes to the one national organization serving you, the American numismatist.

So consign with A.N.A. 1980 by calling Bob Merrill toll-free at 800-527-6810 or send in the coupon for our informative brochure, "How to Sell Rare Coins at Auction." And cash in on the most exciting coin auction of the year.

Your Money and Time Deserve Our Money and Time ... and a Lot More ...

After years of effort, dollars, and hours of study, you have managed to put together a collection of rare and quality coins of which you can be proud. Certainly, your collection is worth a lot more today than it was when you first began. So, why not spend a little more time considering the best method of sale.

Superior Galleries can insure that your coins will bring the highest realized prices possible.

CONSIDER THESE ADVANTAGES:

- * Superior entered the field of numismatics in 1930. Where else can you get 47 years of experience?
- * We are a financially sound corporation, prepared to provide generous cash advancements at the time of consignment.
- * Your collection, while stored in our vaults, is fully insured at all times.
- * With the use of our extensive Numismatic Library, containing over 2,000 volumes, your coins will be expertly catalogued by a staff of professionals who are more than just familiar with your type of collection.
- * We know the importance of quality photographs in assisting mail bidders, we therefore use more photographs than most European or Domestic auction firms.
- * Our auctions are strategically planned around major numismatic events to insure that our sessions are well attended.
- * Our mailing list has been carefully developed and closely screened to provide our consignment with qualified anxious buyers who are prepared to pay realistic prices for quality coins.
- * The promotion of our auction sale begins with the first consignment we receive. Our spacious location in Beverly Hills provides a most comfortable atmosphere and allows every floor bidder the opportunity to view the lots at least three months prior to our sale. We personally contact our active buyers and provide private viewing of your coins.
- * Most importantly, after the sale is over and you have reaped your financial rewards for all of the years you have spent building your collection, our catalog becomes your catalog ... A permanent record of all that you have achieved in numismatics.

We, at Superior Galleries, are certain that our method of auction sale is the finest available and we have proved it to our consignors. Now, we want to prove it to you. We will be happy to provide you with all of the information you will need as well as a past auction catalog and prices realized so you may judge for yourself.

Write for free list of available coin books. Over 800 titles. Specify interest. SASE please.

October 11, 1978 was a bad day for some auctioneers.

It was the day Spink ran their first ever coin auction. And what an outstanding success it was, totalling £264,000.

The record prices that were realised reflected the high quality of coins that we offered for sale.

It was just the start of something big. Because Spink Coin Auctions have gone from strength to strength.

We now hold auctions in London, Sydney and Zurich. They have all been very successful. Including the finest collection of modern Greek coins ever offered for sale. And the most important collection of English coins offered for 20 years.

That sale saw the world record price for a penny broken twice in two days.

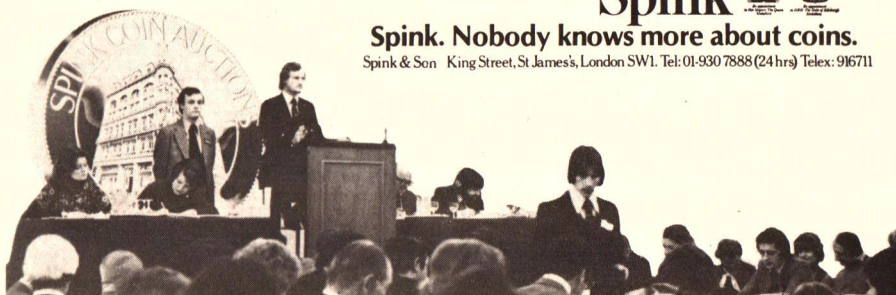

Our rapid rise to the top of the coin auction league took some people by surprise. But those who knew Spink to be the world's leading coin dealers knew it was only a matter of time before they became the world's leading coin auctioneers.

Spink Coin Auctions are here to stay.

WHY BUY SILVER DOLLARS NOW? Because we think they're reasonable priced. Our conclusion is based on the lack of choice coins in the majority of U.S. series and the unbelievably high prices asked for those few that are offered. The dollars listed above are currently available and many are the same dates knowledgeable dealers are buying and stockpiling for re-sale at higher prices.

Essex Numismatics is assisting a select clientele in the assembling of numismatic collections and investment portfolios consisting of choice quality Mint State and Proof coins. Our quality selection criteria are strict and our history of selecting winners is superb. May we assist you? Contact Charles Surasky today for your personal introduction to Essex Numismatics.

Augusto Dragoni Recollects . . .

"Remember in Kagin's 1977 ANA Auction that beautiful Victor Emanuel III 1903 100 lire in EF?

"Well, I do because out of all the dealers in the world, I paid the highest price.

"Recalling my past acquisitions, I also remember a magnificent piece that I picked up in Superior's June 1979 auction . . . Italy's Humbert I 1878 5 lire in EF.

"Surely you remember that timeless piece I purchased from NASCA's 'London Collection' in July 1979; that rare Papal States 1589 Anno V. scudo in Fine.

"I am interested in only the finest quality, the rarest condition—the ultimate in numismatics. Why? Because to acquire this caliber of material, I have to pay the highest prices available."

MYLAR SOURCE

Stops Coin Oxidation!

Damaging coin oxidation and currency fading caused by "Ultra Violet Rays" from sunlight or fluorescent light is prevented by the use of Mylar. DuPont Mylar is the most dimensionally stable of all plastics. Mylar cannot be torn, contains no plasticizer as in acetate to migrate from film causing deterioration, brittleness, or yellowing. It is unaffected by water, moisture vapor, oils, greases, most acids, alkalis and solvents. At last—Coin and Currency Protection! We now have "failsafe DuPont Mylar, clear lined" coin Flip-Lines. Each comes with information card. No staples or cardboard. Coins are locked in by clear Mylar flap; coins do not touch vinyl.

Paying Top Prices

Not Just A Slogan But Guaranteed Results:

- 1) We are consistently one of the biggest buyers at any major coin convention we attend. The coins that we buy from other dealers have mostly been purchased from collectors. Why not sell to the top buyer?
- 2) Year after year we have bought more collections from collectors than other dealers on a competitive bid basis. We are not afraid to bid against our competitors; we welcome the opportunity.
- 3) We have one of the larger mail order businesses in the country and we are constantly in need of good numismatic material. Since we have the customers we can and will pay more.
- 4) We have never had to pass up a collection because of size. We will not try to buy your collection and then pay you for it as we sell it.
- 5) We spent over 100 days traveling last year to buy coins. Few can match this record. If you have a collection for sale, we would appreciate having an opportunity to show you how much we can pay.

You Have The Following Options Available:

- 1) You may ship your coins to us with the prices wanted.
- 2) You may ship your coins for our offer. We will contact you immediately with our offer.
- 3) Large collections we will travel to see.

WE WANT TO BUY: Your entire collection is urgently needed no matter what the size, if it contains the items we are looking for. Generally we are interested in any collection which contains Choice and Rare coins and early U.S. coins in AU or better condition.

SELLING TO US: *You will find that selling to our Rare Coin Galleries is easy and safe. Here is all you do—Package your coins carefully and send them to us insured or registered mail. YOU WILL RECEIVE MORE FOR YOUR COINS: Because our needs are so great at this time we will pay more than any other major dealer in the U.S. Why sell your collection for less when it is so easy and safe to sell your coins to David Bland, Jr.?

HASTY SELLING VS. QUICK BORROWING

Selling your collection can be profitable if you have enough time to find the best prices. But a collection sold quickly is seldom sold profitably.

In any emergency, borrow the money you need at Edelman's. Use your collection as collateral and still retain complete ownership.

At Edelman's, you can obtain quick confidential loans for any amount up to 80% of the value of your properties — from $50 to $50,000 and more. Take as long as 30 months to pay with a repayment plan tailored to your specific needs. Your collection will be safely protected in Edelman's air-conditioned vaults until you reclaim it. Write today for further information.

WHO KNOWS THE FUTURE?

The Fortune-Teller is America's fastest-growing rare coin advisory. Unlike other (and more expensive) newsletters, it is clearly written with specific recommendations and exact predictions.

In the past three years, our predictions have been extremely accurate. If you collect Silver Dollars, Type, Commem's, Gold, etc., Les and Sue Fox may very well know your numismatic future.

QUIETLY . . .

and with little ballyhoo, I've been paying up-to-date, current market prices for fine foreign coins, tokens, essays, and commemorative medals for many years.

Since 1958 I've been buying and selling numismatic items of quality, and with over 20 years of experience in foreign numismatics, a constantly increasing knowledge born of a real interest in and devotion to the subject, and a reference library which compares favorably to most, I feel I am well equipped to pay realistic prices for anything worthwhile you have for sale. Let me hear from you whenever you are thinking of selling.

WANTED! TOKENS & MEDALS related to DENTISTRY

From any and all countries of the world. Please send item or clear rubbing for my offer. Be sure to state if gold, silver, copper, tin, lead, zinc, or whatever.

These are for a collector friend of some 20 years' standing who has asked my help in furthering his collection. Because my friend now lives in a far-away place and only he knows what he already has, I have to forward offerings to him and await his answer. Thus it may take a couple of weeks for you to get a reply from me on these dental items. I will acknowledge your letter upon receipt and will get back to you. If you are a collector and long-time ANA member, I will simply put the two of you in direct contact. My interest in this matter is that of a friend and in no way commercial.

THE 1921 PEACE DOLLAR

The 1921 Peace Type Dollar has an original mintage of 1,006,473 and is underrated in my opinion.

1921 Peace Dollar. VF-20. This is a very attractive circulated piece that has never been cleaned.

$38.00

1921 Peace Type Dollar. Choice MS-60. This is a true original MS-60 coin with a more superior field than most, however it has only an MS-60 strike.

$350.00

1921 Peace Type Dollar. Choice MS-63. A very well struck, full lustre piece that doesn't quite grade MS-65 in my opinion.

$975.00

1921 Peace Type Dollar. Choice MS-64. A great superb piece that many dealers and collectors would grade MS-65. The best piece I have ever owned to date.

$1,500.00

All want lists gladly serviced.
